LBJ Calls for Unity

Plea Made In Manila Conference

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

MANILA (AP) — The U.S. commander in Viet Nam told the Manila summit conference today the war is "far from over" and he will need more troops in the days ahead, but President Johnson said a display of unity by the allies here should provide new fuel for the cause of peace.

"Let the bullies of the world know that when they do attack their neighbors, the friends of their neighbors will be there to resist," the President said in this first day of meetings among the leaders of nations fighting Communists in Viet Nam.

Johnson was the last speaker of the day. His remarks came after Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, reported to the leaders that allied forces are increasing effective in battling the Communists.

Westmoreland said troop morale was high.

"The troops are the finest ever fielded; they understand the conflict and appreciate their complex role as both fighters and builders."

The session in which Westmoreland and the President spoke was closed to the public, but their remarks were given to newsmen later by U.S. spokesmen.

Johnson summed up what he portrayed as the four main principles which had stood out in the talks of those leaders who spoke before him. He listed them as:

"The determination of all that aggression must fail."

Commitment to the job of pacification.

"Our commitment to and our awareness of regional cooperation" among Asian countries.

The hope for reconciliation and a peaceful settlement.

Before Johnson spoke, Westmoreland was asked by one of the conferees if he would need more troops in Viet Nam. He replied that he would. But a top military informant explained later this need is due, at least in part, to plans to put increasing emphasis on clearing and holding areas of South Viet Nam for pacification and reconstruction.

A stepup in what President Johnson calls this "other war" to improve the living conditions of the South Vietnamese people and develop loyalty to the Saigon government is said to be a major concern of the seven allied governments meeting in Manila.

Allied forces in South Viet Nam now total slightly more than one million men under arms, according to officials in Saigon, while the Communist armed strength is estimated at 284,000 men.

The allied force includes 705,000 South Vietnamese 331,000 Americans, 45,000 South Koreans 4,500 Australians 2,000 Filipinos, 150 New Sealanders and 150 from Thailand.

The seven government chiefs ended their first day's meeting shortly after 6 p.m. (6 a.m. EDT). They had been working, starting with a public session, since 9 a.m.

Congress Leaves Big Impact

EDITORS' NOTE -- The impact of bills passed by the 89th Congress which adjourned late Saturday will be felt in hometown and family circles across the land. To explore the effect of the congressional actions, this story illustrates some of the things the 1966 session did for, or to, a "typical" family in a mythical American community.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1966 session of the "Great Society" Congress will have profound impact on all Americans--their hopes and fears, their pocketbooks, their way of life.

A stepped-up war on poverty, billions more for the Viet Nam war, sums to stake education at home, a boost in the minimum wage, auto safety, consumer protection, new remedies for ailing cities and public transportation, steps to clean up the air and waters, to beautify highways — these are just a few of the problems Congress tackled.

The second session of the 89th Congress specifically authorized Sargent Shriver, director of the war on poverty, to provide birth control devices upon request of a local community, and the woman involved.

To explore the effect of the programs enacted or extended this year, let's take a "typical" family living in Beauville, a mythical Midwest city (pop. 15,000).

This family consists of dad, who makes $10,400 a year; mom, who tries to make ends meet and save a little; Bob, 24, who is with the Marines in Viet Nam; Joe, 20, a kind of alienated lad who has failed to get with it (he got a bad conduct discharge from the Army and doesn't work; Nancy, 19, who attends state university, is socially conscious, greatly interested in the wide world and is what her father fondly calls a "do gooder"; and, last but not least, Poochie, a poodle.

Some of the things the 1966 session did for, or to, this family:

Dad — His take-home pay dropped by $2.40 a week on May 1, because the income tax withholding went up from $20.80 to $23.20. However, if he has $15,000 in the bank or savings and loan, it will now be fully insured, as compared with the previous $10,000 limit. If he's thinking of buying a new car in 1968, he can expect it to be more "crashworthy."

Meantime, the manufacturers's excise tax on new autos has gone up from 6 to 7 per cent, and the tax on phone calls from 3 to 10 per cent. As for creation, if dad is a sports fan, he can look forward to seeing more pro football games.

Mom — The supermarket labyrinth will be a little easier to figure out, though not right away. Labels will be easier to read, giant half-quarts and jumbo pounds are on their way out, and the air space in the top of the package seems likely to diminish. Mom can hope for a better education for Nancy, and for the grandchildren, if any, in view of $6.2 billion in aid to elementary and secondary schools and $3.9 billion for colleges; if she goes touring she will be able to see more parks; if the family takes a cruise, it will be better able to avoid a fire-trap ship.

Operators of foreign liners must advertise whether they meet safety standards. If mom and dad are interested in a painless way to finance presidential campaigns, they can check a box on their joint income tax return and $2 will go into a kitty for the purpose.

Bob — If he survives Viet Nam, the government will help stake him to a career as a steam shovel operator or nuclear physicist. Under the "cold war GI bill" it will pay $100 a month toward his subsistence while training — $125 if he gets married, and $150 if he becomes a father. This applies not only to Viet Nam war fighters, but all persons with six months or more service since 1955. Upon discharge, Bob can join the American Legion, previously limited to veterans of the two world wars and Korea.

Joe — If he shapes up and lives an exemplary life for three years, and if his preacher or other solid citizen so attests, he can get that bad conduct discharge superseded by a certificate of rehabilitation. This

Blockade Brings Arrest

By GARY GARRISON

ROMA, Tex. (AP) — Labor organizer Eugene Nelson was arrested and dragged off the International Bridge at Roma today after he refused to order his demonstrators to end their blockade.

Nelson was arrested by Deputy Raul Pena. The labor leader refused to get into a squad car and Pena and two other officers dragged and pulled the hefty Californian into the vehicle.

After Nelson's arrest, the demonstrators, trying to prevent Mexican workers from entering Texas, sat down on the bridge, blocking traffic.

Attorney Randall Nye said Nelson was arrested on a charge of obstructing a public bridge and he warned all the demonstrators in English and Spanish that they faced similar action unless they left.

"Why should we when you are going to arrest us anyway?" asked labor organizer Bill Chandler when Nye asked the group to get up and let traffic pass.

After Nelson was loaded into the squad car, Nye told Pena to take him to the justice of peace in Rio Grande City and "then come back and get some more."

Mexican police moved out onto the bridge, forcing the demonstrators to cross the halfway mark of the bridge back into Texas. The Mexican police were brought onto the bridge after Nelson, Chandler and the others defied Starr County authorities by retreating into Mexico when Pena ordered them off the bridge.

Pena reached across the border and grabbed Chandler, pulling him to the floor of the bridge, but the labor organizer wrestled free from the deputy and retreated toward Mexico.

Chandler said the action was being taken to prevent "strikebreakers from crossing the bridge."

"Green carders," Mexican nationals, cross into Texas to work on farms

The move was part of a campaign which began this summer to get higher wages for laborers who gather the valley's fruit and vegetable crops.

The demonstrators say they are being paid wages ranging from 40 cents to $1 an hour.

They are campaigning for a state minimum wage law of $1.25 an hour. Texas has no minimum wage law.

After a few minutes on the bridge, the demonstrators began letting cars carrying tourists through their lines.

Mexican police once escorted some pedestrians to the middle of the bridge, but returned to the Mexican side when the demonstrators would not part to let them through.

Vitamin A May Deter Lung Cancer

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Big doses of vitamin A can halt or prevent development of lung cancer in animals, a scientist reported today.

He has found a way of inducing lung cancer — the same kind that humans get — in hamsters. But when he also feeds them vitamin A, very few come down with lung tumors.

His findings, he stressed, are by no means an invitation for cigarette smokers or people living in air-polluted areas to start gulping down vitamin A, or lots of carrots which are rich in the vitamin. Too much vitamin A can be harmful to humans.

Dr. Umberto Saffiotti, Italian-born pathologist now at the Chicago Medical School, described his research at opening scientific sessions of the Ninth International Cancer Congress. He amplied them in an interview.

He turned up evidence that dust particles in the air, or in cigarette smoke, can be the "carriers" to take cancer-causing chemicals into the lungs.

Using hamsters, he prepared inert dust particles to which were attached crystals of a potent cancer-caused benzpyrene. Benzpyrene is found in smoke or exhausts from industrial plants, automobiles, coal furnaces, and also in cigarette smoke.

He injected this material down the windpipes of hamsters, rather than letting them breathe it in over a period of months or years. He could follow what happened because the benzpyrene fluoresces.

The gas tank exploded damagthe motor and one tire. The machine was parked on Linn street behind Martin Oil Friday when the accident occurred.

The coin box of a Coca Cola machine in front of a liquor store in the 800 block of West Malone was rifled Sunday night, police reported.

Feelings High At Inquest for Slide Victims

ABERFAN, Wales (AP) — Shouting "They killed our children!" bereaved parents brought uproar today to an inquest for young victims of the coal slag slide that buried Aberfan's village school.

A man whose wife and two sons were killed in Friday's "black glacier" told the coroner to record a verdict of "buried alive by the National Coal Board."

The board, which runs Britain's state-owned mines, has been accused of neglect in allowing the giant slag heap to grow to the point where it collapsed.

To date, 143 bodies have been recovered, all but 17 of them children.

Sixty parents were present at the inquest for the first 34 victims identified. In the uproar, women called out: "They killed our children."

Coroner Benjamin Hamilton tried to calm the distraught mothers and fathers by saying: "I know your grief is such that you may not realize what you are saying."

He reminded the parents "an inquiry will be held at a later date when you will be able to voice your grievances."

One father, his face twisted in sorrow, replied: "We had an inquiry on Friday night when we stood and saw our children murdered."

Under British law, inquests on all violent deaths are held as soon as possible after the event.

Officials estimated that more than 50 others were still under the waste and slime that descended on the village school Friday from the man - made mountain of coal mine refuse.

Villagers say local government and mining authorities ignored repeated complaints that the slag heap - known as a coal tip -- was dangerous.

One factor was extremely heavy rainfall, and there also was an underground spring in the heart of the mountain. Robert Price, chief geologist of the National Coal Board, said the water apparently had built up and caused an eruption like a water bomb which burst.

Student Takes Own Life After Killing Wife

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - A University of Missouri engineering student killed his wife and then shot himself to death in their apartment early Sunday while their 5-year-old son slept in the same room, police said.

The couple was Rodney Sheridan and his wife, Tasha, both about 23, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Dr. Richard Johnson, coroner, said there would be no inquest.

Police said the shooting occurred after a quarrel between the Sheridans broke up a party in their apartment. Witnesses said Sheridan became angry when his wife danced with another man.

Five other couples were at the party. They went to another apartment in the building when the quarrel started.

James Fuller of St. Joseph, a weekend guest of the Sheridans, said he returned to the apartment later and found the couple dead.

Mrs. Sheridan was shot three times in the back and once near the heart. Sheridan was shot once in the head. A .22 caliber revolver was found under his body, the coroner said.

The son, Bryan Sheridan, was placed in temporary custody today of friends.

Leftists Warn LBJ Not to Enter Malaysia

Police sources here said security officials were watching for a possible joint demonstration against Johnson by Singapora and Kuala Lumpur leftists, who have maintained links despite the separation of Singapore from Malaysia last year.

Sheppard May Not Take Stand

By ARTHUR EVERETT

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard's lawyer hinted today that the former osteopath may not take the witness stand at his murder retrial, or even offer any evidence.

Sheppard, 42, is being retried by a U.S. Supreme Court mandate after serving nine years in prison for the 1954 slaying of his wife, Marilyn.

When the first prospective juror was summoned at the opening of the trial today, defense attorney F. Lee Bailey asked:

"If the defendant did not testify would you feel that was any indication that he had something to hide?"

When the prospective juror Alan Severs, replied in the negative, Bailey asked:

"If at the end of the state's case, the defense says nothing and presents nothing would this indicate to you that he had something to hide?"

"No," replied Severs, 38, a bachelor who works for a firm manufacturing truck equipment.

Severs was temporarily seated as a juror by Common Pleas Judge Francis J. Talty, despite Bailey's objection that the panel member had been subjected to "general exposure" to the case through news media.

Sheppard came to the second-floor courtroom shortly before 9 a.m. looking relaxed.

The defense had sought in vain to have his new trial transferred out of Cleveland. However, Talty directed that the case proceed to the extent of determining whether an impartial jury can be selected here.

A panel of 15 women and nine men was summoned for examination. Sheppard half rose and bowed in their direction when Talty introduced him along with the opposing lawyers.

The prospects heard a reading of the second-degree murder indictment which charges that on July 4, 1954, Sheppard, then a practicing osteopath, "unlawfully, purposely and maliciously killed Marilyn Sheppard."

The indictment does not include the element of premeditation as it did in the first trial, when Sheppard could have been sentenced to the electric chair.

The defendant was convicted by the original jury of second-degree murder and under the Supreme Court ruling's any further first-degree prosecution was outlawed.

By chance, Severs, the first prospect to be examined, once worked for the late Thomas Reese, who was the father of Marilyn Sheppard

Sheppard had served nearly 10 years in prison before Bailey won him freedom in 1964 on a U.S. District Court order.

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld that order June 6 in a ruling which said that prejudicial news coverage and commotion in the courtroom prevented Sheppard from receiving a fair trial.

Judge Talty banned the taking of photographs anywhere in the building of persons involved in the case, and he will permit no one to enter or leave the courtroom during trial proceedings.

No special courtroom arrangements were allowed for newsmen covering the retrial, and no courtroom seats were assigned for out-of-town news media.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1966 session of the "Great Society" Congress will have profound impact on all Americans--their hopes and fears, their pocketbooks, their way of life.

Some of the things the 1966 session did for, or to, this family:

Dad — His take-home pay dropped by $2.40 a week on May 1, because the income tax withholding went up from $20.80 to $23.20. However, if he has $15,000 in the bank or savings and loan, it will now be fully insured, as compared with the previous $10,000 limit. If he's thinking of buying a new car in 1968, he can expect it to be more "crashwor'hy."

Meantime, the manufacturers's excise tax on new autos has gone up from 6 to 7 per cent, and the tax on phone calls from 3 to 10 per cent. As for creation, if dad is a sports fan, he can look forward to seeing more pro football games.

Mom — The supermarket labyrinth will be a little easier to figure out, though not right away. Labels will be easier to read, giant half-quarts and jumbo pounds are on their way out, and the air space in the top of the package seems likely to diminish. Mom can hope for a better education for Nancy, and for the grandchildren, if any, in view of $6.2 billion in aid to elementary and secondary schools and $3.9 billion for colleges; if she goes touring she will be able to see more parks; if the family takes a cruise, it will be better able to avoid a fire-trap ship.

Operators of foreign liners must advertise whether they meet safety standards. If mom and dad are interested in a painless way to finance presidential campaigns, they can check a box on their joint income tax return and $2 will go into a kitty for the purpose.

Bob — If he survives Viet Nam, the government will help stake him to a career as a steam shovel operator or nuclear physicist. Under the "cold war GI bill" it will pay $100 a month toward his subsistence while training — $125 if he gets married, and $150 if he becomes a father. This applies not only to Viet Nam war fighters, but all persons with six months or more service since 1955. Upon discharge, Bob can join the American Legion, previously limited to veterans of the two world wars and Korea.

Joe — If he shapes up and lives an exemplary life for three years, and if his preacher or other solid citizen so attests, he can get that bad conduct discharge superseded by a certificate of rehabilitation. This

Blockade Brings Arrest

By GARY GARRISON

ROMA, Tex. (AP) — Labor organizer Eugene Nelson was arrested and dragged off the International Bridge at Roma today after he refused to order his demonstrators to end their blockade.

Nelson was arrested by Deputy Raul Pena. The labor leader refused to get into a squad car and Pena and two other officers dragged and pulled the hefty Californian into the vehicle.

After Nelson's arrest, the demonstrators, trying to prevent Mexican workers from entering Texas, sat down on the bridge, blocking traffic.

Attorney Randall Nye said Nelson was arrested on a charge of obstructing a public bridge and he warned all the demonstrators in English and Spanish that they faced similar action unless they left.

"Why should we when you are going to arrest us anyway?" asked labor organizer Bill Chandler when Nye asked the group to get up and let traffic pass.

After Nelson was loaded into the squad car, Nye told Pena to take him to the justice of peace in Rio Grande City and "then come back and get some more."

Mexican police moved out onto the bridge, forcing the demonstrators to cross the halfway mark of the bridge back into Texas. The Mexican police were brought onto the bridge after Nelson, Chandler and the others defied Starr County authorities by retreating into Mexico when Pena ordered them off the bridge.

Pena reached across the border and grabbed Chandler, pulling him to the floor of the bridge, but the labor organizer wrestled free from the deputy and retreated toward Mexico.

Chandler said the action was being taken to prevent "strikebreakers from crossing the bridge."

"Green carders," Mexican nationals, cross into Texas to work on farms

The move was part of a campaign which began this summer to get higher wages for laborers who gather the valley's fruit and vegetable crops.

The demonstrators say they are being paid wages ranging from 40 cents to $1 an hour.

They are campaigning for a state minimum wage law of $1.25 an hour. Texas has no minimum wage law.

After a few minutes on the bridge, the demonstrators began letting cars carrying tourists through their lines.

Mexican police once escorted some pedestrians to the middle of the bridge, but returned to the Mexican side when the demonstrators would not part to let them through.

Vitamin A May Deter Lung Cancer

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Big doses of vitamin A can halt or prevent development of lung cancer in animals, a scientist reported today.

He has found a way of inducing lung cancer — the same kind that humans get — in hamsters. But when he also feeds them vitamin A, very few come down with lung tumors.

His findings, he stressed, are by no means an invitation for cigarette smokers or people living in air-polluted areas to start gulping down vitamin A, or lots of carrots which are rich in the vitamin. Too much vitamin A can be harmful to humans.

Dr. Umberto Saffiotti, Italian-born pathologist now at the Chicago Medical School, described his research at opening scientific sessions of the Ninth International Cancer Congress. He amplied them in an interview.

He turned up evidence that dust particles in the air, or in cigarette smoke, can be the "carriers" to take cancer-causing chemicals into the lungs.

Using hamsters, he prepared inert dust particles to which were attached crystals of a potent cancer-caused benzpyrene. Benzpyrene is found in smoke or exhausts from industrial plants, automobiles, coal furnaces, and also in cigarette smoke.

He injected this material down the windpipes of hamsters, rather than letting them breathe it in over a period of months or years. He could follow what happened because the benzpyrene fluoresces.

Feelings High At Inquest for Slide Victims

ABERFAN, Wales (AP) — Shouting "They killed our children!" bereaved parents brought uproar today to an inquest for young victims of the coal slag slide that buried Aberfan's village school.

A man whose wife and two sons were killed in Friday's "black glacier" told the coroner to record a verdict of "buried alive by the National Coal Board."

The board, which runs Britain's state-owned mines, has been accused of neglect in allowing the giant slag heap to grow to the point where it collapsed.

To date, 143 bodies have been recovered, all but 17 of them children.

Sixty parents were present at the inquest for the first 34 victims identified. In the uproar, women called out: "They killed our children."

Coroner Benjamin Hamilton tried to calm the distraught mothers and fathers by saying: "I know your grief is such that you may not realize what you are saying."

He reminded the parents "an inquiry will be held at a later date when you will be able to voice your grievances."

One father, his face twisted in sorrow, replied: "We had an inquiry on Friday night when we stood and saw our children murdered."

Under British law, inquests on all violent deaths are held as soon as possible after the event.

Officials estimated that more than 50 others were still under the waste and slime that descended on the village school Friday from the man - made mountain of coal mine refuse.

Villagers say local government and mining authorities ignored repeated complaints that the slag heap - known as a coal tip -- was dangerous.

One factor was extremely heavy rainfall, and there also was an underground spring in the heart of the mountain. Robert Price, chief geologist of the National Coal Board, said the water apparently had built up and caused an eruption like a water bomb which burst.

She told police she gave him $82 in bills and change from a billfold. The man took the money, got into a car driven by another white man and drove away.

Student Takes Own Life After Killing Wife

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - A University of Missouri engineering student killed his wife and then shot himself to death in their apartment early Sunday while their 5-year-old son slept in the same room, police said.

The couple was Rodney Sheridan and his wife, Tasha, both about 23, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Dr. Richard Johnson, coroner, said there would be no inquest.

Police said the shooting occurred after a quarrel between the Sheridans broke up a party in their apartment. Witnesses said Sheridan became angry when his wife danced with another man.

Five other couples were at the party. They went to another apartment in the building when the quarrel started.

James Fuller of St. Joseph, a weekend guest of the Sheridans, said he returned to the apartment later and found the couple dead.

Mrs. Sheridan was shot three times in the back and once near the heart. Sheridan was shot once in the head. A .22 caliber revolver was found under his body, the coroner said.

The son, Bryan Sheridan, was placed in temporary custody of friends.

Leftists Warn LBJ Not to Enter Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) - A leftist opposition to President Johnson's visit to Malaysia Sunday gained momentum today, with a warning to the U.S. chief of state not to set foot here.

The warning was contained in an open letter to the "American consul general in Maylaya" from 2 left-wing trade unions in Singapore. Copies were issued to newspapers there.

Police sources here said security officials were watching for a possible joint demonstration against Johnson by Singapora and Kuala Lumpur leftists, who have maintained links despite the separation of Singapore from Malaysia last year.

Sheppard May Not Take Stand

By ARTHUR EVERETT

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard's lawyer hinted today that the former osteopath may not take the witness stand at his murder retrial, or even offer any evidence.

Sheppard, 42, is being retried by a U.S. Supreme Court mandate after serving nine years in prison for the 1954 slaying of his wife, Marilyn.

When the first prospective juror was summoned at the opening of the trial today, defense attorney F. Lee Bailey asked:

"If the defendant did not testify would you feel that was any indication that he had something to hide?"

When the prospective juror Alan Severs, replied in the negative, Bailey asked:

"If at the end of the state's case, the defense says nothing and presents nothing would this indicate to you that he had something to hide?"

"No," replied Severs, 38, a bachelor who works for a firm manufacturing truck equipment.

Severs was temporarily seated as a juror by Common Pleas Judge Francis J. Talty, despite Bailey's objection that the panel member had been subjected to "general exposure" to the case through news media.

Sheppard came to the second-floor courtroom shortly before 9 a.m. looking relaxed.

The defense had sought in vain to have his new trial transferred out of Cleveland. However, Talty directed that the case proceed to the extent of determining whether an impartial jury can be selected here.

A panel of 15 women and nine men was summoned for examination. Sheppard half rose and bowed in their direction when Talty introduced him along with the opposing lawyers.

The prospects heard a reading of the second-degree murder indictment which charges that on July 4, 1954, Sheppard, then a practicing osteopath, "unlawfully, purposely and maliciously killed Marilyn Sheppard."

The indictment does not include the element of premeditation as it did in the first trial, when Sheppard could have been sentenced to the electric chair.

The defendant was convicted by the original jury of second-degree murder and under the Supreme Court ruling's any further first-degree prosecution was outlawed.

By chance, Severs, the first prospect to be examined, once worked for the late Thomas Reese, who was the father of Marilyn Sheppard

Sheppard had served nearly 10 years in prison before Bailey won him freedom in 1964 on a U.S. District Court order.

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld that order June 6 in a ruling which said that prejudicial news coverage and commotion in the courtroom prevented Sheppard from receiving a fair trial.

Judge Talty banned the taking of photographs anywhere in the building of persons involved in the case, and he will permit no one to enter or leave the courtroom during trial proceedings.

No special courtroom arrangements were allowed for newsmen covering the retrial, and no courtroom seats were assigned for out-of-town news media.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
KNOW WHAT YOU'RE VOTING FOR

The "Get Out the Vote" campaigns are beginning as November approaches. One attractive leaflet is entitled "Just One Vote" and is aimed squarely at the eligible voters who stay away from the polls. And they amount to a disgracefully large number. In 1960, a presidential election year, more than a third of the voters failed to exercise their right of franchise--a right which is at the very heart of representative government and a free society. In the off-year elections of 1962 the showing was worse still, with more than half of the eligible voters staying away from the polls.

How important is one vote? It can actually determine the result. In recent elections, a mayor, a city treasurer, a councilman and a state legislator won office by just that margin. And, moving up the ladder, the late President Kennedy's plurality in 1960 was less than one vote per precinct. His margin of victory was less than 120,000 votes out of almost 69 million cast.

So much for facts and figures. Another point needs stressing. The country doesn't need "Just Voters". It needs "Informed Voters" --men and women who study the issues and the positions of the candidates, all the way from town and country to Capitol Hill and the White House and know exactly what they are voting for.

So--vote, and vote intelligently for the people and the principles you believe in.

ALIENATED YOUTH

The beatnik kid, the protest marcher, the sullen delinquent, the ghetto rioter, the intellectual recluse, the new-left radical--all of these manifest in different ways an alienation from society as a whole. Certain features of their states of mind are so similar that probably all are affected by the same currents in the society of our day. This would mean that even the non-alienated kids--those who succeed in accommodating themselves to the demands of the social order --may be affected to some degree by these alienating influences.

The underlying feature of all alienation among youth is rejection of the adult. While youth has always sought to throw off control by its elders, the new ways of youth have usually represented a continuity with those of the past. Today's alienated youth seem to seek a sharper and more fundamental break.

The slogan of the student rebellion two years ago at the University of California in Berkeley-- "Never trust anyone over 30"--found a response far beyond the borders of that or any other campus in the nation. "The pre-World War II students...simply wanted a 'piece of the action,' as Lewis Yablonsky, put it. "The new-alienated reject all that American culture offers."

The anti-adult attitude is especially strong when authority is manifested in an institutional form. Youth turns its fire on the "establishment," the "power structure," the "college bureaucracy," the "rat race" of working to get ahead on a job and keeping up with payments on a home mortgage. Even the government welfare system, for which radicals of the past fought so hard, is regarded by today's young rebels as one more institutional straitjacket smothering the individual.

In a society like ours, writes Kenneth Kenisten in his new book, The Uncommitted, "alienation (among the young) characteristically takes the new form of rebellion without a cause, of rejection without a program, of refusal of what is without a vision of what should be." Others have noted the absence of an ideology even among the radicals of the new left.

Rebellious youth is apparently so antagonistic to the institutions of the larger society that it fears to institutionalize its own revolt. Having suffered impersonal pressures for conformity emanating from the approved institutions of the "establishment," the rebellious young have little desire to create new pressures for conformity even to dissident positions.

To put it more simply, the young prefer to act on their own rather than as part of a group. One result of the passion for individual freedom of action has been a looseness of organization structure in groups formed to condemn some aspect of the social order. The largest of the protesting campus organizations, Students for a Democratic Society, has been described as "an amorphous grouping of loosely affiliated chapters."

Even the delinquent of the slums is developing a form of alienation which rejects organizational or emotional ties with his fellows. Many city workers report a decline in gang organization in the very period of rising juvenile violence in the streets. A united Nations report on youth organizations noted anti-organization sentiment even among youths willing to engage in social action work. "Among the young of today...(in) all our countries," the U. N. report stated, "there is a tendency for more to be done on a non-team--and sometimes even an 'anti-team'--basis."

Those who have searched for the reasons for the spread of alienation among youth invariably cite the rapidity of change in the modern world, the growing reliance on technology, the threat of world destruction from nuclear war, the draft, the pressure on students to "make the grade," the emphasis on high consumption of material goods, and so on. These factors are said to generate anxiety in young people who fear responsibilities of adulthood in so complex, demanding, impersonal and hazardous a social order.

Youth's egotism is another factor. He resists the loss of personal identity in the large university, the corporation, the mass army, or whatever arm of the social machine that seems outstretched to grab him.

Among analyzers and commentators dealing with the alienation phenomenon there are few optimists. Yet some find hopeful evidence of an awakening of youth to a concern for the quality of the life of the individual in the difficult years ahead. The author Michael Harrington has hailed "the emergence of a personally committed generation seeking basic social change." From this angle, youth's expression of its alienation--often antic and attention-getting--may be viewed as a reaching out for meaningful connections with society.

LASER IS FINGER ON EARTH'S PULSE

There seem to be no limits to the potential of the laser, that intense beam of man-made light created in the laboratory only a few years ago.

One possibility that could be an incalculable boon to mankind is to use the laser to predict earthquakes.

For the past two years, physicists from the Boeing Scientific Research Laboratories in Seattle have been successfully measuring movement along earth faults in California, using a laser beam in a specially designed interferometer.

The device works by measuring the difference in phase of a light wave crossing a fault from that of a beam which does not cross it. It can detect movements of the earth of less than a millionth of a centimeter. Even small measurements may become possible. Build-up of these infinitestimal strains is thought to precede a major shift of the earth's crust along a fault line.

There are 20,000 miles of major faults around the Pacific Ocean alone. Another zone extends from the West Indies all the way across the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and Asia to the East Indies.

It was a massive shifting of the earth at a point along this line that took some 3,000 lives in Turkey recently.

Fortunately, such disasters are relatively infrequent. Only about 1,000 out of the 500,000 temblors detected by seismograph stations around the world each year are severe enough to cause damage.

Seismographs, however, record earthquakes only after they happen. A series of laser interferometers along an earthquake belt, the Boeing scientists believe, could continuously probe and chart the system's strains.

There is nothing men can -- or should -- do to prevent Mother Earth's restlessness. Were it not for the constant uplifting of the crust, all land would long ago have been eroded by wind and rain and conquered by the sea.

But the laser now shines as a light of hope that we may eventually be able to predict the time and place of the worst of these convulsions and save uncounted lives in the future.

A GOOD OMEN

Surveys have shown that there is a lack of understanding of the fundamentals of the American economic system in the nation's schools. This lack is dangerous because it means that millions of young people may assume the full responsibilities of citizenship without realizing that economics and freedom are two sides of the same coin. Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson held two confidential talks before he left Washington which will probably influence the course of events at the Manila Summit Conference opening today.

One was a telephone conversation with former President Eisenhower, who from Gettysburg wished LBJ good luck on his trip. Johnson had called Eisenhower to say goodbye and Ike in turn spent some time explaining that his recent statement suggesting the use of atomic weapons to end the Viet Nam war had been misunderstood.

All he had meant to say, Ike told LBJ, was that the United States should never foreclose the use of nuclear weapons. He recalled to the President that they had agreed in previous discussions that the United States should hold the nuclear threat over Red China as a deterrent to keep her from throwing her massive manpower into Viet Nam. And the former President assured the President that he had only intended by his recent statement to support that policy.

Since Johnson has been under some pressure from Republicans to use atomic weapons to end the war in a hurry, Eisenhower's statement will tend to influence Johnson toward a moderate policy at Manila.

The second talk, with Vice President Humphrey and Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, should be even more influential in veering Johnson toward a moderate course in Manila.

Both men urged the President not to disrupt the thaw between the United States and Russia be escalating the Viet Nam war. They had in mind that the President had just made a most important speech outlining the reduction of trade barriers, the extension of credits to European Communist nations, and the starting of the new New York - Moscow airline. And they reminded LBJ that the last period of better relations between the USA-USSR was spoiled when he gave the order to bomb North Viet Nam.

RED RUSSIAN FACES

The first bomb fell one day after Premier Alexei Kosygin had arrived in Hanoi; and when the United States later asked Russia to help end the Viet Nam war, the Russians reminded us that this was exactly what Kosygin was trying to do but we bombed North Viet Nam. This had made Kosygin look so foolish, the Russians said, that he could no longer advocate a Viet Nam truce. If we had only held off the bombing until Kosygin's departure, the Russians contended, they would not have looked so ridiculous.

In view of all this, Humphrey and Goldberg advised the President that this would be exactly the wrong moment to step up the war. They knew, of course, that Premier Ky of South Viet Nam and Premier Thanom of Thailand were going to urge escalation. If we follow their advice, the Russians once again would interpret this as pulling the peace rug right out from under them just as Johnson had pleaded with Foreign Minister Gromyko to use his good offices with North Viet Nam for peace.

RUSSIAN PEACE OVERTURES

What Vice President Humphrey and Ambassador Goldberg were referring to was a significant piece of history largely revealed by the Chinese in a series of documents made public in order to prove their contention that Russia was the "Stooge of the Imperialist Americans."

The Chinese documents show that in January, 1965, the Soviet government had passed two requests on behalf of the United States to North Viet Nam: First, that North Viet Nam stop sending weapons to the Viet Cong; second, that Viet Cong be ordered to stop attacking South Vietnamese cities.

On February 4, Premier Kosygin, only in office three months, went to Peking as a peace emissary. According to the Chinese official report: "Kosygin stressed the need to help the United States 'find a way out' of Viet nam."

The Chinese were cool; so Kosygin proceeded on to Hanoi, arriving there on February 6. One day later President Johnson ordered the first bombing on North Viet Nam. The Russians were furious. When I visited Moscow one month later, they told me that they had never been more embarrassed. The Chinese, they said, were now taunting them with the charge: "We told you so. You can't possible get along with these Americans. They don't believe in coexistence."

PERSEVERING PEACE ENVOY

According to the Chinese documents, however, Kosygin, despite this embarrassment, did persevere in trying to end the hostilities between North and South Viet Nam.

"On February 16, 1965," continues the Chinese report, "the day after Kosygin's return to Moscow, the Soviet government officially put before North Viet Nam and China a proposal to convene a new international conference on Indo - China without prior conditions.

"On February 23, disregarding the stand that the North Vietnamese government had taken against this proposal and without waiting for a reply from China, the new leaders of the Soviet Communist party discussed the question of calling the above - mentioned international conference with the President of France through the Soviet Ambassador to France."

These efforts were rebuffed by Red China and North Viet Nam, and ever since that time the Russians have made it clear to the state department that they are loath to be put in the position of being criticized by the Chinese for being once again "stooges for the imperialist Americans."

President Johnson has received no definite word as a result of his talks with Foreight Minister Gromyko two weeks ago as to whether the Russians will make another peace try. But there have been a few private hints from the Kremlin that Soviet reaction is favorable -- despite the negative public statement by Communist party secretary Breshnev.

These are some of the important backstage diplomatic factors which will influence President Johnson as he sits at the conference table in Manila.

DELEGATING VOTING POWER IN THE PRECINCT

A wise provision in the ALPACA Constitution provides that those voting in precincts will vote for delegates rather than office-holders. While choosing among their acquaintances or those of close friends, they will elect executive delegates, legislative delegates and judicial delegates.

Their acquaintances with potential "delegates" will enable them to judge which of the delegates they choose for a position enabling them to be effective in the executive field, which ones are temperamentally fitted for the legislature and which would know more about judicial processes than others.

The winners will select the office-holders, if any, within the precinct level, and will in turn vote for the three different type of delegates to attend and comprise a college constituted by delegates from about fifty precincts.

The delegates in the first college will employ the office-holders at that level, and choose delegates for each of the three main branches of government who will attend the next higher college comprised of delegates from the primary college representing about 250 precincts. Again, this second college will designate the office-holders needed at that level and also elect delegates to attend and comprise what may be the top college which is empowered to choose the highest officers governing the nation. The highest college will also elect vacancy committees for three of the branches of government.

The ALPACA Constitution at present contemplates a "military branch of government." It is quite likely that any country adopting a new Constitution will decide that the Executive Department should control the armed forces and that the military branch will only be subsidiary to, and a branch of, the Executive Department. Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Reuther - Meany Showdown Coming Over Use of Labor's Global Networks.

Washington, D. C.: -- To paraphrase Sir Walter Scott--the sun never sets on Walter Reuther.

From the Congo to the Copacabana, from Mount Fuji to Mount Kenya, from Washington to Tunisia, Reuther's organizers trot the world. They supply films. They hand out movie projectors. They distribute literature in Arabic and Japanese.

They run underground operations in Africa. They finance undercover activities inside Spain.

Still, the rusty - haired leader of the 1,500,000-member United Auto Workers wants more freedom of action. He feels the activities of his UAW International Affairs Dept., directed by his militant younger brother Victor, are too restricted by the policies of the national AFL-CIO. He believes these policies, developed under the leadership of its president, George Meany, don't compromise sufficiently with the necessities of coexistence.

"Walter," for example, believes there can be no real military victory in Viet Nam. "Victor" is bitterly opposed to President Johnson's policies in South Viet Nam. "Mr. Meany" stands solidly -- with a solidity the Rock of Gibralter now wishes it had -- behind the President.

So Reuther has called for a showdown inside labor's high command over the AFL-CIO's foreign policy. The Detroiter wants a complete review of the national headquarter's Department of International Affairs' attitudes and activities -- which Victor Reuther says are linked with the Central Intelligence Agency.

That showdown, undoubtedly highly decibel, will come sometime early in the week of Nov. 14 here. Labor's national Executive Council is scheduled to meet that Monday morning. Reuther reportedly wants the sessions to run three days. It may take that long.

Just what new policies Reuther wants he has not yet made clear to his peers on the central command.

These policies, of course, are intertwined with the auto union's covert and overt international activities, the full story of which has not been reported.

His International Affairs Dept., for example, is deep inside Spain. The auto union runs undercover schools to train leaders for the illegal labor and youth movements. It helps to finance organization drives by these unions. And it publishes anti - government newspapers and pamphlets in and out of Spain.

Such activity has sprung the lock on strikes and demonstrations and the presentation of petitions to the government.

This action parallels work in Africa. In the past, Reuther reports, the UAW has worked with Zambia's president Kenneth Kaunda, Tunisia's president Habib Bourguiba, Kenya's Minister of Economic Planning and Development Tom Mboya, and Dr. H. K. Banda, prime minister of Malawi -- when these leaders were fighting the British and French.

Tons of literature have been distributed on other continents -- including reprints of Reuther's own collected works in Spanish, French, Japanese and a special inexpensive English edition circulating in India.

But Reuther's pride is something new -- STEP. This stands for Social, Technical and Educational Programs.

Officially known as UAW Solidarity STEP, it has been incorporated so it can contract for official work with U. S. government agencies such as the Agency for International Development (AID), the Peace Corps, and Food for Peace. Thus STEP can legally administer programs financed by the U. S. government "and international grants and contributions."

To develop the know - how manpower for such action, Victor Reuther's UAW International Affairs Dept. runs a sort of laborite institute for international diplomacy. Union men are selected and trained here and in Detroit for work across the world and possibly for appointment as labor attaches in U.S. embassies.

In all, Walter Reuther probably is more active on an international front than anyone outside the State Dept.

There are no objections from the Meany headquarters -- so long as Reuther speaks for himself and his big union.

The AFL-CIO does not exactly sit on its own hearth. It spends some 23 per cent of its income -- several million dollars -- on international activities building free labor forces in burgeoning lands and checkmating Communists' efforts.

The national labor federation command feels it has been effective as a team -- and some do believe Reuther is too much a loner.

The big federation is hawkish on Viet Nam -- and says so frankly.

The Reuthers are not. They say so frankly.

And that's how they'll all talk to each other when the showdown comes.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
KNOW WHAT YOU'RE VOTING FOR

The "Get Out the Vote" campaigns are beginning as November approaches. One attractive leaflet is entitled "Just One Vote" and is aimed squarely at the eligible voters who stay away from the polls. And they amount to a disgracefully large number. In 1960, a presidential election year, more than a third of the voters failed to exercise their right of franchise--a right which is at the very heart of representative government and a free society. In the off-year elections of 1962 the showing was worse still, with more than half of the eligible voters staying away from the polls.

How important is one vote? It can actually determine the result. In recent elections, a mayor, a city treasurer, a councilman and a state legislator won office by just that margin. And, moving up the ladder, the late President Kennedy's plurality in 1960 was less than one vote per precinct. His margin of victory was less than 120,000 votes out of almost 69 million cast.

So much for facts and figures. Another point needs stressing. The country doesn't need "Just Voters". It needs "Informed Voters" --men and women who study the issues and the positions of the candidates, all the way from town and country to Capitol Hill and the White House and know exactly what they are voting for.

So--vote, and vote intelligently for the people and the principles you believe in.

ALIENATED YOUTH

The beatnik kid, the protest marcher, the sullen delinquent, the ghetto rioter, the intellectual recluse, the new-left radical--all of these manifest in different ways an alienation from society as a whole. Certain features of their states of mind are so similar that probably all are affected by the same currents in the society of our day. This would mean that even the non-alienated kids--those who succeed in accommodating themselves to the demands of the social order --may be affected to some degree by these alienating influences.

The underlying feature of all alienation among youth is rejection of the adult. While youth has always sought to throw off control by its elders, the new ways of youth have usually represented a continuity with those of the past. Today's alienated youth seem to seek a sharper and more fundamental break.

The slogan of the student rebellion two years ago at the University of California in Berkeley-- "Never trust anyone over 30"--found a response far beyond the borders of that or any other campus in the nation. "The pre-World War II students...simply wanted a 'piece of the action.' as Lewis Yablonsky, put it. "The new-alienated reject all that American culture offers."

The anti-adult attitude is especially strong when authority is manifested in an institutional form. Youth turns its fire on the "establishment," the "power structure," the "college bureaucracy," the "rat race" of working to get ahead on a job and keeping up with payments on a home mortgage. Even the government welfare system, for which radicals of the past fought so hard, is regarded by today's young rebels as one more institutional straitjacket smothering the individual.

In a society like ours, writes Kenneth Kenistion in his new book, The Uncommitted, "alienation (among the young) characteristically takes the new form of rebellion without a cause, of rejection without a program, of refusal of what is without a vision of what should be." Others have noted the absence of an ideology even among the radicals of the new left.

Rebellious youth is apparently so antagonistic to the institutions of the larger society that it fears to institutionalize its own revolt. Having suffered impersonal pressures for conformity emanating from the approved institutions of the "establishment," the rebellious young have little desire to create new pressures for conformity even to dissident positions.

To put it more simply, the young prefer to act on their own rather than as part of a group. One result of the passion for individual freedom of action has been a looseness of organization structure in groups formed to condemn some aspect of the social order. The largest of the protesting campus organizations, Students for a Democratic Society, has been described as "an amorphous grouping of loosely affiliated chapters."

Even the delinquent of the slums is developing a form of alienation which rejects organizational or emotional ties with his fellows. Many city workers report a decline in gang organization in the very period of rising juvenile violence in the streets. A united Nations report on youth organizations noted anti-organization sentiment even among youths willing to engage in social action work. "Among the young of today...(in) all our countries," the U. N. report stated, "there is a tendency for more to be done on a non-team--and sometimes even an 'anti-team'--basis."

Those who have searched for the reasons for the spread of alienation among youth invariably cite the rapidity of change in the modern world, the growing reliance on technology, the threat of world destruction from nuclear war, the draft, the pressure on students to "make the grade," the emphasis on high consumption of material goods, and so on. These factors are said to generate anxiety in young people who fear responsibilities of adulthood in so complex, demanding, impersonal and hazardous a social order.

Youth's egotism is another factor. He resists the loss of personal identity in the large university, the corporation, the mass army, or whatever arm of the social machine that seems outstretched to grab him.

Among analyzers and commentators dealing with the alienation phenomenon there are few optimists. Yet some find hopeful evidence of an awakening of youth to a concern for the quality of the life of the individual in the difficult years ahead. The author Michael Harrington has hailed "the emergence of a personally committed generation seeking basic social change." From this angle, youth's expression of its alienation--often antic and attention-getting--may be viewed as a reaching out for meaningful connections with society.

LASER IS FINGER ON EARTH'S PULSE

There seem to be no limits to the potential of the laser, that intense beam of man-made light created in the laboratory only a few years ago.

One possibility that could be an incalculable boon to mankind is to use the laser to predict earthquakes.

For the past two years, physicists from the Boeing Scientific Research Laboratories in Seattle have been successfully measuring movement along earth faults in California, using a laser beam in a specially designed interferometer.

The device works by measuring the difference in phase of a light wave crossing a fault from that of a beam which does not cross it. It can detect movements of the earth of less than a millionth of a centimeter. Even small measurements may become possible. Build-up of these infinitestimal strains is thought to precede a major shift of the earth's crust along a fault line.

There are 20,000 miles of major faults around the Pacific Ocean alone. Another zone extends from the West Indies all the way across the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and Asia to the East Indies.

It was a massive shifting of the earth at a point along this line that took some 3,000 lives in Turkey recently.

Fortunately, such disasters are relatively infrequent. Only about 1,000 out of the 500,000 temblors detected by seismograph stations around the world each year are severe enough to cause damage.

Seismographs, however, record earthquakes only after they happen. A series of laser interferometers along an earthquake belt, the Boeing scientists believe, could continuously probe and chart the system's strains.

There is nothing men can -- or should -- do to prevent Mother Earth's restlessness. Were it not for the constant uplifting of the crust, all land would long ago have been eroded by wind and rain and conquered by the sea.

But the laser now shines as a light of hope that we may eventually be able to predict the time and place of the worst of these convulsions and save uncounted lives in the future.

On February 4, Premier Kosygin, only in office three months, went to Peking as a peace emissary. According to the Chinese official report: "Kosygin stressed the need to help the United States 'find a way out' of Viet nam."

The Chinese were cool; so Kosygin proceeded on to Hanoi, arriving there on February 6. One day later President Johnson ordered the first bombing on North Viet Nam. The Russians were furious. When I visited Moscow one month later, they told me that they had never been more embarrassed. The Chinese, they said, were now taunting them with the charge: "We told you so. You can't possible get along with these Americans. They don't believe in coexistence."

PERSEVERING PEACE ENVOY

According to the Chinese documents, however, Kosygin, despite this embarrassment, did persevere in trying to end the hostilities between North and South Viet Nam.

"On February 16, 1965," continues the Chinese report, "the day after Kosygin's return to Moscow, the Soviet government officially put before North Viet Nam and China a proposal to convene a new international conference on Indo - China without prior conditions.

"On February 23, disregarding the stand that the North Vietnamese government had taken against this proposal and without waiting for a reply from China, the new leaders of the Soviet Communist party discussed the question of calling the above - mentioned international conference with the President of France through the Soviet Ambassador to France."

These efforts were rebuffed by Red China and North Viet Nam, and ever since that time the Russians have made it clear to the state department that they are loath to be put in the position of being criticized by the Chinese for being once again "stooges for the imperialist Americans."

President Johnson has received no definite word as a result of his talks with Foreight Minister Gromyko two weeks ago as to whether the Russians will make another peace try. But there have been a few private hints from the Kremlin that Soviet reaction is favorable -- despite the negative public statement by Communist party secretary Breshnev.

These are some of the important backstage diplomatic factors which will influence President Johnson as he sits at the conference table in Manila.

"Have you met the new couple who moved in across the street?" the wife asked her husband.

"Nope," he mumbled and continued reading his paper.

"I can tell you this," the wife ran on. "They're very lovey-dovey. Every morning he hugs and kisses her before he leaves the house. He even goes back once or twice and kisses her again. Why don't you ever do that, Horace?"

"You must be nuts," said Horace. "I don't even know her."

H. L. Hunt Says

DELEGATING VOTING POWER IN THE PRECINCT

A wise provision in the ALPACA Constitution provides that those voting in precincts will vote for delegates rather than office-holders. While choosing among their acquaintances or those of close friends, they will elect executive delegates, legislative delegates and judicial delegates.

Their acquaintances with potential "delegates" will enable them to judge which of the delegates they choose for a position enabling them to be effective in the executive field, which ones are temperamentally fitted for the legislature and which would know more about judicial processes than others.

The winners will select the office-holders, if any, within the precinct level, and will in turn vote for the three different type of delegates to attend and comprise a college constituted by delegates from about fifty precincts.

The delegates in the first college will employ the office-holders at that level, and choose delegates for each of the three main branches of government who will attend the next higher college comprised of delegates from the primary college representing about 250 precincts. Again, this second college will designate the office-holders needed at that level and also elect delegates to attend and comprise what may be the top college which is empowered to choose the highest officers governing the nation. The highest college will also elect vacancy committees for three of the branches of government.

The ALPACA Constitution at present contemplates a "military branch of government." It is quite likely that any country adopting a new Constitution will decide that the Executive Department should control the armed forces and that the military branch will only be subsidiary to, and a branch of, the Executive Department. Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Reuther - Meany Showdown Coming Over Use of Labor's Global Networks.

Washington, D. C.: -- To paraphrase Sir Walter Scott--the sun never sets on Walter Reuther.

From the Congo to the Copacabana, from Mount Fuji to Mount Kenya, from Washington to Tunisia, Reuther's organizers trot the world. They supply films. They hand out movie projectors. They distribute literature in Arabic and Japanese.

They run underground operations in Africa. They finance undercover activities inside Spain.

Still, the rusty - haired leader of the 1,500,000-member United Auto Workers wants more freedom of action. He feels the activities of his UAW International Affairs Dept., directed by his militant younger brother Victor, are too restricted by the policies of the national AFL-CIO. He believes these policies, developed under the leadership of its president, George Meany, don't compromise sufficiently with the necessities of coexistence.

"Walter," for example, believes there can be no real military victory in Viet Nam. "Victor" is bitterly opposed to President Johnson's policies in South Viet Nam. "Mr. Meany" stands solidly -- with a solidity the Rock of Gibralter now wishes it had -- behind the President.

So Reuther has called for a showdown inside labor's high command over the AFL-CIO's foreign policy. The Detroiter wants a complete review of the national headquarter's Department of International Affairs' attitudes and activities -- which Victor Reuther says are linked with the Central Intelligence Agency.

That showdown, undoubtedly highly decibel, will come sometime early in the week of Nov. 14 here. Labor's national Executive Council is scheduled to meet that Monday morning. Reuther reportedly wants the sessions to run three days. It may take that long.

Just what new policies Reuther wants he has not yet made clear to his peers on the central command.

These policies, of course, are intertwined with the auto union's covert and overt international activities, the full story of which has not been reported.

His International Affairs Dept., for example, is deep inside Spain. The auto union runs undercover schools to train leaders for the illegal labor and youth movements. It helps to finance organization drives by these unions. And it publishes anti - government newspapers and pamphlets in and out of Spain.

Such activity has sprung the lock on strikes and demonstrations and the presentation of petitions to the government.

This action parallels work in Africa. In the past, Reuther reports, the UAW has worked with Zambia's president Kenneth Kaunda, Tunisia's president Habib Bourguiba, Kenya's Minister of Economic Planning and Development Tom Mboya, and Dr. H. K. Banda, prime minister of Malawi -- when these leaders were fighting the British and French.

Tons of literature have been distributed on other continents -- including reprints of Reuther's own collected works in Spanish, French, Japanese and a special inexpensive English edition circulating in India.

But Reuther's pride is something new -- STEP. This stands for Social, Technical and Educational Programs.

Officially known as UAW Solidarity STEP, it has been incorporated so it can contract for official work with U. S. government agencies such as the Agency for International Development (AID), the Peace Corps, and Food for Peace. Thus STEP can legally administer programs financed by the U. S. government "and international grants and contributions."

To develop the know - how manpower for such action, Victor Reuther's UAW International Affairs Dept. runs a sort of laborite institute for international diplomacy. Union men are selected and trained here and in Detroit for work across the world and possibly for appointment as labor attaches in U.S. embassies.

In all, Walter Reuther probably is more active on an international front than anyone outside the State Dept.

There are no objections from the Meany headquarters -- so long as Reuther speaks for himself and his big union.

The AFL-CIO does not exactly sit on its own hearth. It spends some 23 per cent of its income -- several million dollars -- on international activities building free labor forces in burgeoning lands and checkmating Communists' efforts.

The national labor federation command feels it has been effective as a team -- and some do believe Reuther is too much a loner.

The big federation is hawkish on Viet Nam -- and says so frankly.

The Reuthers are not. They say so frankly.

And that's how they'll all talk to each other when the showdown comes.

Mrs. Jimmie Wayne New

Miss Darlene Ann LeGrand Bride of Jimmie W. New

BENTON -- In a nuptial mass conducted at the St. Denis Catholic church by the Rev. Francis Donovan, Miss Darlene Ann LeGrand was married to Jimmie Wayne New of Charleston. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. LeGrand of Benton, route one and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge New of Charleston route two.

Large pink dahlias appointed the altar where the couple met to exchange their vows. Sister M. Angelica, OSF, aunt of the bride, was organist for the service. Miss Rosemary LeGrand, Mount Vernon, Ill., cousin of the bride, was soloist.

Wearing a gown of peau de soie and Chantilly lace, the bride appeared with her father who gave her in marriage. A deep ruffle of lace accented the front of the bouffant skirt, and lace also etched the scooped neckline of the bodice. At back a train swept to chapel length. A crown of pearls entwined with lace and hand-cut crystals held her bouffant veil of English illusion. Her bridal bouquet was a cluster of white dahlias and a white orchid.

Her sister, Miss Betty Lou LeGrand, attended her as maid of honor, and her other attendants were Miss Donna New, Cape Girardeau, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Vernell LeGrand, another sister of the bride.

They were dressed alike in formal gowns of azalea silk chiffon over taffeta with bateau necklines, fitted bodices and semi-full skirts with watteau trains at back. Each carried white dahlias tinted pink with lilies of the valley.

Terry Walker, Bertrand, attended the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen were Roger Tesney, Bertrand, and Ronald LeGrand, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Richard Morrow, Cape Girardeau, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and James LeGrand, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

Cardinals Stabilize Roster

ST. LOUIS -- The Cardinals have added nine prospective major league players to their roster, and sent seven to the minor leagues in stabilizing their winter list at the required 40, according to an announcement by General Manager Bob Howsam.

Coming up to the Cardinals are Pitchers Harry Parker, Joe DiFabio and Jerry Pruett, Infielders Steve Huntz, Jose Arcia and John Sipin, Outfielders John Windl and Floyd Wicker and Cathcer Dave Ricketts.

Assigned to the Tulsa Club of the Pacific Coast League are Pitchers Tracy Stallard, Ron Piche, Dennis Aust, Art Mahaffey and Harold Gilson, Infielder Art Deras and Catcher Dave Pavlesic.

The three young righthanded hurlers moving to the major league roster have outstanding records.

Parker, a 19-year-old from Collinsville, Ill., had a 6-5 won-lost record and a 1.57 earned run average at St. Petersburg; Pruett, also 19 and from Canton, Ohio, was 13-7 with 155 strikeouts in 161 innings and an ERA of 2.85 at Cedar Rapids, and DiFabio, a 22-year-old from Cranford, N.J., who was 11-3 with a 1.86 ERA at Cedar Rapids.

Huntz and Sipin both are shortstops. Huntz, a 21-year-old switch hitter from Garfield Heights, Ohio, hit .250 this past season at Arkansas, while Sipin, a righthanded 20-year-old from Watsonville, Calif., had a .233 average at Cedar Rapids. Arcia, a 23-year-old Cuban now living in Miami, hit .272 at Cedar Rapids. He is a righthanded hitter.

Wicker and Kindl both were .300 hitters, the former batting .303 at Arkansas and the latter .314 at Tulsa with 18 home runs. Wicker is a 23-year-old lefthanded hitter from Snow Camp, N.C., and Kindl is 24 and comes from Warwick, R. I.

Ricketts, a veteran catcher who has already been up with the Cardinals twice before, had an outstanding season, with a .327 switch-hitting batting average at Tulsa. He is 31 years old, and lives at Rochester, N.Y.

Piche, a 31-year-old from Lorraine, Quebec, Canada, had a 6-3 record at Tulsa in relief, before joining the Cardinals in July. He appeared in 20 St. Louis games, winning one and losing three. Aust (26) was 6-3 and had a 3.17 ERA as a relief pitcher at Tulsa, Gilson, who stands 6 feet, 5 inches tall and comes from Berkeley, Calif., was 1-3 at Tulsa while Mahaffey, a 28-year-old Philadelphian, was 4-4 at Tulsa the latter half of the season and had one victory, four defeats with the Cardinals in the first half. Stallard, who lives at Herald, W. Va., was 1-5 with the Cardinals and 3-3 at Tulsa.

Pavlesic, a 26-year-old from Pittsburgh, batted .258 at Tulsa this season, while Deras, who is 20, had a .223 average at Arkansas. Deras lives in Warren, Michigan.

As a result of the moves, the Cardinal roster shapes up as follows:

CATCHERS (3) -- Tim McCarver, Pat Corrales, and Ricketts.

PITCHERS (18) -- Bob Gibson, Nelson Briles, Don Dennis, Joe Hoerner, Steve Carlton, Larry Jaster, Danny Jaster, Al Jackson, Ray Washburn, Hal Woodeshick, Dick Hughes, Ron Willis, Jim Cosman, Wayne Granger, Mike Torrez, Parker, Pruett and DeFabio.

INFIELDERS (12) -- Orlando Cepeda, Tito Francona, George Kernek, Charley Smith, Julian Javier, Phil Gagliano, Jerry Buchek, Dal Maxvill, Ed Spiezio, Huntz, Arcia and Sipin.

Bullpups Split Twin bill, Take B Game, Lose A

In Junior high football Saturday at public schools stadium, the B team shut out Perryville, 18-0, in the morning game, and the A team dropped a 21-6 decision to Poplar Bluff in the afternoon contest.

The B contest went scoreless the first quarter with neither team threatening.

Charles Yarber broke the scoring barrier in the second quarter when he got away for a 6-yard touchdown. The half ended with the score, 6-0, in favor of the Pups.

As the third quarter started, Randy Reynolds went over tackle for a 25-yard touchdown and the Pups held a 12-0 lead.

In the closing minutes of the third period the Pups cut loose Dave Culbertson and he went for a 30 -yard TD.

Sikeston overpowered the smaller Pirates and won handily.

Saturday afteroon's A contest started with the Bullpups taking the opening kickoff and driving 60 yards for a TD. Ted Watkins carried the pigskin 13 yards for the score.

Bluff came right back and on five plays tied the score on Ken Link's five-yard run and the extra point gave the Juniors the lead, which they never relinquished.

After the kickoff the Pups bogged down on the Mules' 23-yard line and were forced to punt. The punt was blocked and recovered by Bluff on the 23-yard line and went over on Hosie Moss' three-yard plunge. The extra point was good. The Mules led 14-6 and held it during the half.

The Mules final score came in the last quarter with a little over a minute to go. Eddie Robinson took a hand off from the Sikeston quarterback and went 45 yards for the Mules final TD. The extra point was good.

The Pups had scoring threats going in the final half but lost the ball on the one yard line after running out of downs. A pass was intercepted after they reached the Mules five-yard line.

Jim Hill and Ted Watkins were selected as outstanding players. Both led the Pups in tackling.

The Junior high A team's final game will be Thursday.

Irish Takes Advantage Of Oklahoma's Sooners 38-0

By RON RAPOPORT

"I thought sure we were playing the Green Bay Packers," said Harry Hettsmannsperger.

"Who in the hell scheduled them?" joked Jim MacKenzie.

Hettsmannsperger plays linebacker for Oklahoma, MacKenzie is the Sooners' coach and both were recorded for posterity after their previously undefeated team had the misfortune of playing Notre Dame.

The Irish won 38-0, administering the worst beating the Sooners have taken since 1945. Over in the Notre Dame locker-room all was happiness.

"I guess this has to be one of our better games," said Terry Hanratty, Notre Dame's fine sophomore quarterback.

"It was a good one to win," said Coach Ara Parseghian, "and certainly we didn't expect this kind of score or margin."

Notre Dame now has it easy for the next three weeks when it takes on Navy, Pitt and Duke before playing Michigan State in a game that is looming larger all the time.

The Spartans crushed Purdue 41-20 Saturday, bolstering their No. 2 rating in the Associated Press poll. Notre Dame's performance undoubtedly kept its place atop the rankings secure.

Nick Eddy scored twice for the Irish, which seemed hardly to miss sophomore end Jim Seymour who injured an ankle in the first half and may miss a game.

Michigan State's victory made it nearly a cinch to win a second straight Big Ten title, although it cannot go to the Rose Bowl because it went last year. Bob Apisa scored three times for the Spartans.

Third-ranked UCLA beat California 28-15 behind Mel Farr's two touchdowns and two scoring tosses by Gary Beban. Alabama, No. 4, crushed Vanderbilt 42-6 as quarterback Wayne Trimble passed for two scores and threw for another.

Southern California, No. 5, shut out Clemson 30-0 after Mike Battle, a sophomore safety, ran a punt back 74 yards for a touchdown in the first period. Georgia Tech, No. 6, beat Tulane 38-17 for the Engineers' 14th consecutive victory over the Green Wave.

Seventh-rated Nebraska survived a scare from Colorado and scored with 53 seconds left, winning 21-19. Eighth-ranked Florida took care of Louisiana State 28-7 as Steve Spurrier connected on 17 of 25 passes for 209 yards and two touchdowns.

Purdue was ninth and Oklahoma, poor thing, was ranked No. 10.

Packers' Taylor May Be Leaving

MILWAUKEE, Wis. AP - Fullback Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers may be leaving and his understudy Jim Grabowski may have arrived. Taylor told The Associated Press Sunday that he was playing out his option with the Packers.

Grabowski, being groomed to succeed Taylor some day in the Green Bay backfield, didn't say anything much. He just outgained Taylor and everyone else as the Packers embarrassed the Atlanta Falcons 56-3 in the most lopsided game of the National Football League season.

"We just haven't negotiated a contract to my satisfaction," said Taylor, 31, a nine-year veteran who is the leading ground gainer in Green Bay history. If he doesn't sign a contract with the Packers, he would be free to sign with someone else next year.

Grabowski, an Illinois All-America who signed with the Packers for an estimated $250,000, was given a rare chance against the winless Falcons to show what he was worth.

The rookie responded by gaining 52 yards, two more than Taylor, after replacing the veteran in the third period.

Grabowski said Taylor told him, "Go in there and do a good job."

Taylor would not say how far he and Vince Lombardi, coach and general manager, are apart on salary terms.

Nebraska Atop Big 8, MU Tie Iowa State

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

Nebraska's unbeaten, 7th-ranked Huskers finally have their followers bursting with pride. For the first time this season they emerged as clearly the Big Eight's best football team.

The Huskers did it with a dramatic 21-19 victory at Colorado on two last-quarter touchdown drives directed by quarterback Bob Churchich, while Missouri fought for its life to tie Iowa State 10-10 and Oklahoma's perfect record was shattered 38-0 by top-ranked Notre Dame.

Nebraska isn't the only Big Eight team without a conference defeat. Oklahoma, 2-0, and Missouri, 2-0-1, have yet to lose a league game.

But indications were never stronger that Coach Bob Devaney is headed for his fourth straight league championship down the stretch, starting with Missouri at Lincoln Saturday.

"It's the same old story," said Missouri coach Dan Devine when asked about Nebraska. "They are just as good as they have to be."

Churchich passed for all but 20 yards in the 63 and 68-yard last quarter drives as he completed 10 for 111 yards. Pete Tatman blasted over from the two behind tackle Bob Pickens for the winning TD with 53 seconds left. Churchich finished with 236 air yards, a school record, and Devaney termed it "a great clutch performance."

Colorado rippedt h e Huskers for a 19-7 halftime bulge, as Buff quarterback Dan Kelly got all but 45 of his 214 yards total offense—115 of which came on the ground. All the Colorado points came with Wayne Meylan, Nebraska's great middle guard, out with an injury. He returned the second half. Colorado was fired high for a homecoming crowd of 46,112.

Oklahoma State took over fourth place at 2-1 by defeating Kansas 10-7, while Kansas State lost 28-14 at Cincinnati in other games.

Kansas lost quarterback Bob Skahan for the season with torn knee ligaments early in the second quarter with the Jayhawks ahead 7-0.

K-State was ahead 14-0 nine minutes into the last half, but Cincy scored on fourth down, K-State fumbled the kickoff and Cincy quicly tied it up. Cornelius Davis had 172 yards rushing and Dave Jones 103 pass receiving. Both set K-State season records with four games left.

Missouri was down 10-0 with eight minutes left and needed a fantastic leaping catch in the end zone by Chuck Weber of a Danny Sharp pass to get the tie. The Missouri crowd of 47,000 was greatly relieved.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton didn't consider it a moral victory.

Oklahoma plays at Colorado, Iowa State at Oklahoma State and Kansas at K-State in other games Saturday.

K-State rolled up 317 yards total offense but Cincy countered with 519, including a whopping 267 in 29 trips by 232-pound Clem Turner.

"Backs like Turner kill us," said K-State coach Doug Weaver. "We had to go much too deep at defensive tackle."

Davis now has 659 yards rushing in six games. The old school mark was 605 by Hi Faubion in 1949. Jones ran his season total to 392 yards, 10 more than the K-State mark set by Dick Johnson in 1950.

It was a tragic ending for Skahan's career. He missed five games last year, played part time in the others and missed two games this year.

Coach Jack Mitchell is undecided on a starter for K-State.

The Kansas defense did a good job, led by linebacker George Harvey. OSU's winning field goal was set up by Ron Johnson's fourth-down 28-yard run to the Kansas 37 on a fake punt.

Missouri end Dan Schuppan was outstanding on defense, so were guard Carl Garber and secondary men Jim Whitaker and Gary Grossnickle.

Devine gave Sharp another chance in the last quarter after he had lost a fumble opening the last half. Sharp came through with a 41-yard pass to Earl Denny, setting up the field goal; then came the winning drive.

Cape State Takes 24 21 Victory Over Maryville State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield State and Cape Girardeau State, both 2-0 in the MIAA, built up toward their Nov. 5 battle by winning, 27-6, over Kirksville State and 24-21 over Maryville State, respetively.

Kirksville, which was dumped by Maryville the week before, saw its hopes of defending the championship which it had won the last two years fade. Warrensburg State beat the Rolla Miners, 28-26, in the other MIAA game.

In the MCAU, Tarkio boosted its record to 2-0 in league play with a 14-7 victory over Graceland. It is the best record in the loop.

Nebraska Wesleyan bumped Missouri Valley, 17-7; Colorado College defeated William Jewell, 27-21; Rose Poly of Indiana trimmed Central Methodist, 21-6, and Illinois College tapped Culver-Stockton, 28-23, in other games involving MCAU teams.

Austin (Tex.) blasted Washington of St. Louis, 28-10, to rub out the last unbeaten log in Missouri. Lincoln, the state's other independent, managed to bump off Northwood of Michigan, 15-12.

Maryville and Rolla led in their games by respective margins of 21 and 20 points before being wiped out by late rallies.

Cape Girardeau scored 18 points in the final period, climaxed by Bruce Hall's 43-yard field goal. The passing of John Repp led to Warrensburg State's comeback.

Saturday, Maryville State tries to climb back into the race when it meets Southwest Missouri in Springfield and Cape Girardeau tries to keep its unbeaten streak alive by hosting Rolla.

Pass rush, says safetyman Ross Fichtner of the Cleveland Browns, means everything.

"My wife could beat me on a pass if she was given enough time to run all over the field."

The Browns' defensive line didn't give Don Meredith's receivers too much time to run anywhere Sunday, and Fichtner credits that rush with helping him intercept three passes as Cleveland defeated previously unbeaten Dallas 30-21.

The victory tightened the race in the National Football League's Eastern Conference, moving the Browns to within one game of first-place St. Louis and keeping Dallas a half-game out. St. Louis also lost its first game, dropping a 26-20 decision to Washington.

In other games, Green Bay trampled Atlanta 56-3, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 20-17, Chicago defeated Los Angeles 17-10, Philadelphia bombed New York 31-3 and San Francisco edged Detroit 27-24.

Fichtner's second interception set up the Browns' second touchdown, Leroy Kelly scoring from two yards out. Mike Howell's lone interception resulted in a 21-yard touchdown pass from Frank Ryan to Paul Warfield. Lou Groza added three field goals for the Browns.

Two touchdown passes from Sonny Jurgensen to Bobby Mitchell in less than three minutes of the fourth quarter enabled Washington to stop St. Louis. Jurgensen first hit Mitchell for 15 yards, then connected for a 44-yarder. Charley Gogolak kicked four Washington field goals.

Green Bay had no trouble remaining on top of the Western Conference as Bart Starr hit for eight of 11 passes in the first half. Rookie Donny Anderson scored twice for the Packers once on a 77-yard punt return.

Baltimore remained 1½ games behind Green Bay on Johnny Unitas' 13-yard touchdown pass to Ray Berry in the fourth quarter. That became the margin of victory when Frank Tarkenton hit Tommy Mason with a three-yard scoring toss later in the quarter.

Gale Sayers burst through the Los Angeles defense for a 93-yard touchdown run with a second-quarter kickoff, helping Chicago to its victory. The teams traded field goals later in the quarter, then played scoreless ball in the second half.

Philadelphia exploded for 24 points in the second quarter against New York, the first touchdown coming after King Hill threw a 27-yard pass to Tom Woodeshick on a fourth-down, fake punt situation. Norm Snead hit Pete Retzlaff with a 30-yard touchdown pass on the next play.

John Brodie's 21-yard touchdown toss to Monty Stickles with three seconds left vaulted San Francisco past Detroit. Karl Sweetan had put the Lions ahead 48 seconds earlier by hitting Jim Gibbons with a two-yarder.

NBA RESULTS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was just like being back in college for Howard Komives.

Komives, the 1963-64 collegiate scoring champion with Bowling Green, paced the New York attack with 24 points Sunday, in leading the Knicks past Chicago 124-105.

Only 6-foot-1 and 185 pounds, Komives relies on his long shots for point production. In fact, it was not until early in the fourth quarter, when Komives really began hitting from long range, that New York pulled away.

It was the first home defeat for the surprising Bulls, now 5-2 and leading the Western Division of the NBA. The Knicks are 3-2.

In the only other game Sunday, the Detroit Pistons turned back the San Francisco Warriors 119-110 at Seattle, Wash.

Cardinals Stabilize Roster

ST. LOUIS -- The Cardinals have added nine prospective major league players to their roster, and sent seven to the minor leagues in stabilizing their winter list at the required 40, according to an announcement by General Manager Bob Howsam.

Coming up to the Cardinals are Pitchers Harry Parker, Joe DiFabio and Jerry Pruett, Infielders Steve Huntz, Jose Arcia and John Sipin, Outfielders John Windl and Floyd Wicker and Cathcer Dave Ricketts.

Assigned to the Tulsa Club of the Pacific Coast League are Pitchers Tracy Stallard, Ron Piche, Dennis Aust, Art Mahaffey and Harold Gilson, Infielder Art Deras and Catcher Dave Pavlesic.

The three young righthanded hurlers moving to the major league roster have outstanding records.

Parker, a 19-year-old from Collinsville, Ill., had a 6-5 won-lost record and a 1.57 earned run average at St. Petersburg; Pruett, also 19 and from Canton, Ohio, was 13-7 with 155 strikeouts in 161 innings and an ERA of 2.85 at Cedar Rapids, and DiFabio, a 22-year-old from Cranford, N.J., who was 11-3 with a 1.86 ERA at Cedar Rapids.

Huntz and Sipin both are shortstops. Huntz, a 21-year-old switch hitter from Garfield Heights, Ohio, hit .250 this past season at Arkansas, while Sipin, a righthanded 20-year-old from Watsonville, Calif., had a .233 average at Cedar Rapids. Arcia, a 23-year-old Cuban now living in Miami, hit .272 at Cedar Rapids. He is a righthanded hitter.

Wicker and Kindl both were .300 hitters, the former batting .303 at Arkansas and the latter .314 at Tulsa with 18 home runs. Wicker is a 23-year-old lefthanded hitter from Snow Camp, N.C., and Kindl is 24 and comes from Warwick, R. I.

Ricketts, a veteran catcher who has already been up with the Cardinals twice before, had an outstanding season, with a .327 switch-hitting batting average at Tulsa. He is 31 years old, and lives at Rochester, N.Y.

Piche, a 31-year-old from Lorraine, Quebec, Canada, had a 6-3 record at Tulsa in relief, before joining the Cardinals in July. He appeared in 20 St. Louis games, winning one and losing three. Aust (26) was 6-3 and had a 3.17 ERA as a relief pitcher at Tulsa, Gilson, who stands 6 feet, 5 inches tall and comes from Berkeley, Calif., was 1-3 at Tulsa while Mahaffey, a 28-year-old Philadelphian, was 4-4 at Tulsa the latter half of the season and had one victory, four defeats with the Cardinals in the first half. Stallard, who lives at Herald, W. Va., was 1-5 with the Cardinals and 3-3 at Tulsa.

Pavlesic, a 26-year-old from Pittsburgh, batted .258 at Tulsa this season, while Deras, who is 20, had a .223 average at Arkansas. Deras lives in Warren, Michigan.

As a result of the moves, the Cardinal roster shapes up as follows:

CATCHERS (3) -- Tim McCarver, Pat Corraies, and Ricketts.

PITCHERS (18) -- Bob Gibson, Nelson Briles, Don Dennis, Joe Hoerner, Steve Carlton, Larry Jaster, Danny Jaster, Al Jackson, Ray Washburn, Hal Woodeshick, Dick Hughes, Ron Willis, Jim Cosman, Wayne Granger, Mike Torrez, Parker, Pruett and DeFabio.

INFIELDERS (12) -- Orlando Cepeda, Tito Francona, George Kernek, Charley Smith, Julian Javier, Phil Gagliano, Jerry Buchek, Dal Maxvill, Ed Spiezio, Huntz, Arcia and Sipin.

Bullpups Split Twin bill, Take B Game, Lose A

In Junior high football Saturday at public schools stadium, the B team shut out Perryville, 18-0, in the morning game, and the A team dropped a 21-6 decision to Poplar Bluff in the afternoon contest.

The B contest went scoreless the first quarter with neither team threatening.

Charles Yarber broke the scoring barrier in the second quarter when he got away for a 6-yard touchdown. The half ended with the score, 6-0, in favor of the Pups.

As the third quarter started, Randy Reynolds went over tackle for a 25-yard touchdown and the Pups held a 12-0 lead.

In the closing minutes of the third period the Pups cut loose Dave Culbertson and he went for a 30-yard TD.

Sikeston overpowered the smaller Pirates and won handily.

Saturday afteroon's A contest started with the Bullpups taking the opening kickoff and driving 60 yards for a TD. Ted Watkins carried the pigskin 13 yards for the score.

Bluff came right back and on five plays tied the score on Ken Link's five-yard run and the extra point gave the Juniors the lead, which they never relinquished.

After the kickoff the Pups bogged down on the Mules' 23-yard line and were forced to punt. The punt was blocked and recovered by Bluff on the 23-yard line and went over on Hosie Moss' three-yard plunge. The extra point was good. The Mules led 14-6 and held it during the half.

The Mules final score came in the last quarter with a little over a minute to go. Eddie Robinson took a hand off from the Sikeston quarterback and went 45 yards for the Mules final TD. The extra point was good.

The Pups had scoring threats going in the final half but lost the ball on the one yard line after running out of downs. A pass was intercepted after they reached the Mules five-yard line.

Jim Hill and Ted Watkins were selected as outstanding players. Both led the Pups in tackling.

The Junior high A team's final game will be Thursday.

Irish Takes Advantage Of Oklahoma's Sooners 38-0

By RON RAPOPORT

"I thought sure we were playing the Green Bay Packers," said Harry Hettsmannsperger.

"Who in the hell scheduled them?" joked Jim MacKenzie.

Hettsmannsperger plays linebacker for Oklahoma, MacKenzie is the Sooners' coach and both were recorded for posterity after their previously undefeated team had the misfortune of playing Notre Dame.

The Irish won 38-0, administering the worst beating the Sooners have taken since 1945. Over in the Notre Dame locker-room all was happiness.

"I guess this has to be one of our better games," said Terry Hanratty, Notre Dame's fine sophomore quarterback.

"It was a good one to win," said Coach Ara Parseghian, "and certainly we didn't expect this kind of score or margin."

Notre Dame now has it easy for the next three weeks when it takes on Navy, Pitt and Duke before playing Michigan State in a game that is looming larger all the time.

The Spartans crushed Purdue 41-20 Saturday, bolstering their No. 2 rating in the Associated Press poll. Notre Dame's performance undoubtedly kept its place atop the rankings secure.

Nick Eddy scored twice for the Irish, which seemed hardly to miss sophomore end Jim Seymour who injured an ankle in the first half and may miss a game.

Michigan State's victory made it nearly a cinch to win a second straight Big Ten title, although it cannot go to the Rose Bowl because it went last year. Bob Apisa scored three times for the Spartans.

Third-ranked UCLA beat California 28-15 behind Mel Farr's two touchdowns and two scoring tosses by Gary Beban. Alabama, No. 4, crushed Vanderbilt 42-6 as quarterback Wayne Trimble passed for two scores and threw for another.

Southern California, No. 5, shut out Clemson 30-0 after Mike Battle, a sophomore safety, ran a punt back 74 yards for a touchdown in the first period. Georgia Tech, No. 6, beat Tulane 38-17 for the Engineers' 14th consecutive victory over the Green Wave.

Seventh-rated Nebraska survived a scare from Colorado and scored with 53 seconds left, winning 21-19. Eighth-ranked Florida took care of Louisiana State 28-7 as Steve Spurrier connected on 17 of 25 passes for 209 yards and two touchdowns.

Purdue was ninth and Oklahoma, poor thing, was ranked No. 10.

Packers' Taylor May Be Leaving

MILWAUKEE, Wis. AP - Fullback Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers may be leaving and his understudy Jim Grabowski may have arrived. Taylor told The Associated Press Sunday that he was playing out his option with the Packers.

Grabowski, being groomed to succeed Taylor some day in the Green Bay backfield, didn't say anything much. He just outgained Taylor and everyone else as the Packers embarrassed the Atlanta Falcons 56-3 in the most lopsided game of the National Football League season.

"We just haven't negotiated a contract to my satisfaction," said Taylor, 31, a nine-year veteran who is the leading ground gainer in Green Bay history. If he doesn't sign a contract with the Packers, he would be free to sign with someone else next year.

Grabowski, an Illinois All-America who signed with the Packers for an estimated $250,000, was given a rare chance against the winless Falcons to show what he was worth.

The rookie responded by gaining 52 yards, two more than Taylor, after replacing the veteran in the third period.

Grabowski said Taylor told him, "Go in there and do a good job."

Taylor would not say how far he and Vince Lombardi, coach and general manager, are apart on salary terms.

Nebraska Atop Big 8, MU Tie Iowa State

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

Nebraska's unbeaten, 7th-ranked Huskers finally have their followers bursting with pride. For the first time this season they emerged as clearly the Big Eight's best football team.

The Huskers did it with a dramatic 21-19 victory at Colorado on two last-quarter touchdown drives directed by quarterback Bob Churchich, while Missouri fought for its life to tie Iowa State 10-10 and Oklahoma's perfect record was shattered 38-0 by top-ranked Notre Dame.

Nebraska isn't the only Big Eight team without a conference defeat. Oklahoma, 2-0, and Missouri, 2-0-1, have yet to lose a league game.

But indications were never stronger that Coach Bob Devaney is headed for his fourth straight league championship down the stretch, starting with Missouri at Lincoln Saturday.

"It's the same old story," said Missouri coach Dan Devine when asked about Nebraska. "They are just as good as they have to be."

Churchich passed for all but 20 yards in the 63 and 68-yard last quarter drives as he completed 10 for 111 yards. Pete Tatman blasted over from the two behind tackle Bob Pickens for the winning TD with 53 seconds left. Churchich finished with 236 air yards, a school record, and Devaney termed it "a great clutch performance."

Colorado ripped t h e Huskers for a 19-7 halftime bulge, as Buff quarterback Dan Kelly got all but 45 of his 214 yards total offense—115 of which came on the ground. All the Colorado points came with Wayne Meylan, Nebraska's great middle guard, out with an injury. He returned the second half. Colorado was fired high for a homecoming crowd of 46,112.

Oklahoma State took over fourth place at 2-1 by defeating Kansas 10-7, while Kansas State lost 28-14 at Cincinnati in other games.

Kansas lost quarterback Bob Skahan for the season with torn knee ligaments early in the second quarter with the Jayhawks ahead 7-0.

K-State was ahead 14-0 nine minutes into the last half, but Cincy scored on fourth down, K-State fumbled the kickoff and Cincy quicly tied it up. Cornelius Davis had 172 yards rushing and Dave Jones 103 pass receiving. Both set K-State season records with four games left.

Missouri was down 10-0 with eight minutes left and needed a fantastic leaping catch in the end zone by Chuck Weber of a Danny Sharp pass to get the tie. The Missouri crowd of 47,000 was greatly relieved.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton didn't consider it a moral victory.

Oklahoma plays at Colorado, Iowa State at Oklahoma State and Kansas at K-State in other games Saturday.

K-State rolled up 317 yards total offense but Cincy countered with 519, including a whopping 267 in 29 trips by 232-pound Clem Turner.

"Backs like Turner kill us," said K-State coach Doug Weaver. "We had to go much too deep at defensive tackle."

Davis now has 659 yards rushing in six games. The old school mark was 605 by Hi Faubion in 1949. Jones ran his season total to 392 yards, 10 more than the K-State mark set by Dick Johnson in 1950.

It was a tragic ending for Skahan's career. He missed five games last year, played part time in the others and missed two games this year.

Coach Jack Mitchell is undecided on a starter for K-State.

The Kansas defense did a good job, led by linebacker George Harvey. OSU's winning field goal was set up by Ron Johnson's fourth-down 28-yard run to the Kansas 37 on a fake punt.

Missouri end Dan Schuppan was outstanding on defense, so were guard Carl Garber and secondary men Jim Whitaker and Gary Grossnickle.

Devine gave Sharp another chance in the last quarter after he had lost a fumble opening the last half. Sharp came through with a 41-yard pass to Earl Denny, setting up the field goal; then came the winning drive.

Cape State Takes 24 21 Victory Over Maryville State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield State and Cape Girardeau State, both 2-0 in the MIAA, built up toward their Nov. 5 battle by winning, 27-6, over Kirksville State and 24-21 over Maryville State, respetively.

Kirksville, which was dumped by Maryville the week before, saw its hopes of defending the championship which it had won the last two years fade. Warrensburg State beat the Rolla Miners, 28-26, in the other MIAA game.

In the MCAU, Tarkio boosted its record to 2-0 in league play with a 14-7 victory over Graceland. It is the best record in the loop.

Nebraska Wesleyan bumped Missouri Valley, 17-7; Colorado College defeated William Jewell, 27-21; Rose Poly of Indiana trimmed Central Methodist, 21-6, and Illinois College tapped Culver-Stockton, 28-23, in other games involving MCAU teams.

Austin (Tex.) blasted Washington of St. Louis, 28-10, to rub out the last unbeaten log in Missouri. Lincoln, the state's other independent, managed to bump off Northwood of Michigan, 15-12.

Maryville and Rolla led in their games by respective margins of 21 and 20 points before being wiped out by late rallies.

Cape Girardeau scored 18 points in the final period, climaxed by Bruce Hall's 43-yard field goal. The passing of John Repp led to Warrensburg State's comeback.

Saturday, Maryville State tries to climb back into the race when it meets Southwest Missouri in Springfield and Cape Girardeau tries to keep its unbeaten streak alive by hosting Rolla.

Pass rush, says safetyman Ross Fichtner of the Cleveland Browns, means everything.

"My wife could beat me on a pass if she was given enough time to run all over the field."

The Browns' defensive line didn't give Don Meredith's receivers too much time to run anywhere Sunday, and Fichtner credits that rush with helping him intercept three passes as Cleveland defeated previously unbeaten Dallas 30-21.

The victory tightened the race in the National Football League's Eastern Conference, moving the Browns to within one game of first-place St. Louis and keeping Dallas a half-game out. St. Louis also lost its first game, dropping a 26-20 decision to Washington.

In other games, Green Bay trampled Atlanta 56-3, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 20-17, Chicago defeated Los Angeles 17-10, Philadelphia bombed New York 31-3 and San Francisco edged Detroit 27-24.

Fichtner's second interception set up the Browns' second touchdown, Leroy Kelly scoring from two yards out. Mike Howell's lone interception resulted in a 21-yard touchdown pass from Frank Ryan to Paul Warfield. Lou Groza added three field goals for the Browns.

Two touchdown passes from Sonny Jurgensen to Bobby Mitchell in less than three minutes of the fourth quarter enabled Washington to stop St. Louis. Jurgensen first hit Mitchell for 15 yards, then connected for a 44-yarder. Charley Gogolak kicked four Washington field goals.

Green Bay had no trouble remaining on top of the Western Conference as Bart Starr hit for eight of 11 passes in the first half. Rookie Donny Anderson scored twice for the Packers once on a 77-yard punt return.

Baltimore remained 1½ games behind Green Bay on Johnny Unitas' 13-yard touchdown pass to Ray Berry in the fourth quarter. That became the margin of victory when Frank Tarkenton hit Tommy Mason with a three-yard scoring toss later in the quarter.

Gale Sayers burst through the Los Angeles defense for a 93-yard touchdown run with a second-quarter kickoff, helping Chicago to its victory. The teams traded field goals later in the quarter, then played scoreless ball in the second half.

Philadelphia exploded for 24 points in the second quarter against New York, the first touchdown coming after King Hill threw a 27-yard pass to Tom Woodeshick on a fourth-down, fake punt situation. Norm Snead hit Pete Retzlaff with a 30-yard touchdown pass on the next play.

John Brodie's 21-yard touchdown toss to Monty Stickles with three seconds left vaulted San Francisco past Detroit. Karl Sweetan had put the Lions ahead 48 seconds earlier by hitting Jim Gibbons with a two-yarder.

NBA RESULTS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was just like being back in college for Howard Komives.

Komives, the 1963-64 collegiate scoring champion with Bowling Green, paced the New York attack with 24 points Sunday, in leading the Knicks past Chicago 124-105.

Only 6-foot-1 and 185 pounds, Komives relies on his long shots for point production. In fact, it was not until early in the fourth quarter, when Komives really began hitting from long range, that New York pulled away.

It was the first home defeat for the surprising Bulls, now 5-2 and leading the Western Division of the NBA. The Knicks are 3-2.

In the only other game Sunday, the Detroit Pistons turned back the San Francisco Warriors 119-110 at Seattle, Wash.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or exlerience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competiton is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

An increase in marriages is keeping pace with the nation's population growth, reflecting the growing numbers of people reaching marriageable age each year. In 1965, the marriage rate at 9.3 per 1,000 population, including military personnel overseas, was the highest since 1956.

Officially neutral, Thailand is increasingly involved in the Vietnamese war. The American military presence in the country now comes to almost 35,000 men, including most of the 13th Air Force. Its function is twofold—to support combat operations in Viet Nam and against the Communists in Laos and to support Thailand against spreading guerrilla activity in its own Communist-infiltrated northeastern provinces, facing Laos. The United States has built the multibillion dollar Friendship Highway for easier access from Bangkok to the threatened provinces, pipelines and a chain of air bases, operating under the Thai flag. The newest, Sattahip, south of Bangkok, is one of the best-equipped in the world with 11,500-foot runways capable of handling B-52 superbombers, to date flying missions over Viet Nam from distant Guam. NEW YORK'S C. W. Post College may have the smallest man in college football on its team. He's Sebastian Di Rubba, shown here being dwarfed by some normal-sized teammates. DiRubba stands one-inch over the five-foot mark and tips the scales at a hefty 115 pounds. As might be expected, he's a soccer-style kicker of the Gogolak variety. Sebastian's uniform is one tailored for coach Joe Scanella's 11-year-old son.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI Medical Center, Columbia, will celebrate its tenth anniversary Nov. 6 through 11. It is fulfilling the long-time aspirations of Missourians for an ultra-modern and complete teaching, research, and patient care center.

THIS YOUNG PATIENT'S VISIT to the outpatient clinics at the University of Missouri medical center, which is celebrating its tenth anniversary Nov. 6-11, was one of more than 70,000 such visits recorded last year. Dr. George Burghen of the medical center staff helps care for patients.

M.U. Medical Center Will Celebrate Anniversary

COLUMBIA -- The University of Missouri medical center will celebrate its tenth anniversary Nov. 6-11, Chancellor John W. Wa part of the anniversary activities, a dedication ceremony for the recently completed addition to the research wing of the university medical center will be held Nov. 6 at 2 p.m. in the medical center auditorium, Dr. Schwada said.

Dr. Robert M. Zollinger, Columbus, chairman of the department of surgery at The Ohio State University, will present the W. Alton Jones surgery lecture Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in the memorial student union auditorium. A reception will follow in the alumni lounge of the memorial student union.

Anniversary activities are open to the public.

Preceding the tenth anniversary week is the university medical center's annual M.D. Day, Nov. 4-5, to which all Missouri doctors are invited.

According to Dean Wilson, growth is the word most accurately describing the medical center's first decade.

Research at the medical center, he said, is continuing each year on a broad and expanding front. Last year, various agencies awarded more than $2 million in research funds to the medical center and its staff to carry on this work.

Dean Wilson pointed out that during the university medical center's first ten years, the original building has been enlarged through two additions. Bids will be let this month for a third expansion which will make it possible to increase the freshman medical class from the present 85 to 100 students.

Five hundred and eighteen doctors have been graduated in the last ten years and 392 nurses have received degrees, Dean Wilson said. In addition, many persons have received training in the health related professions through programs offered at the medical center.

According to Medical Center records, more than 10,000 patients from every part of Missouri were cared for at the University Hospital last year, and another 70,000 received treatment in the outpatient clinics.

Sixty three persons from Scott county were patients in the University of Missouri Hospital last year. There were 111 from New Madrid County, 58 from Mississippi County, 112 from Pemiscot and 37 from Stoddard County.

Magna Carta and the Rule of Law

The origins of the political crisis which culminated in Magna Carta are fairly clear. King John's unsuccessful war to recover his inheritance in Normandy was vastly expensive; the methods he used to collect the money he needed were held to be oppressive and tyrannical; he took ruthless action against defaulters and against his own personal enemies; there was little or no redress against these grievances. In the end John's baronial opponents denounced his conduct of government as unjust and contrary to law, and his actions as emanating from the personal will of a tyrant. Yet the great growth of governmental power in England in the Norman and Angevin age, of which John's reign was only the culmination, had been an achievement above all of personal monarchy. John's personal government, his will too often manifested as malevolentia, precipitated a crisis. The effects of his rule was obvious and often piteous, yet there was little his opponents could do to defend themselves. They denounced his actions as tyrannical, yet with what could they contrast his tyranny?

There was earlier unofficial compilations, like the so-called "Laws of St. Edward" and "Laws of Henry I," for instance, which had in a sense set limits to the exercise of royal authority, but there was little in them to which the barons could appeal in attacking John's government. There was also a vaguer, but none the less deeply ingrained, tradition, shared by king and barons alike, that the king was bound by his oath to rule justly, to uphold the law and the customs of the realm, and to consult his most important subjects on matters of moment. But in what did justice consist? What were the law and the customs of the realm, and what did consultation and consent involve? John had found little difficulty in conducting himself within these vague and undefined limits, and the barons had no answer to these questions, nothing to protect their interests, except a few documents, such as the Coronation Charter of Henry I, which had set limits to royal action in dealing with feudal incidents, and a rather fluid body of precedents which had grown up pari passu with the growth of Angevin administration.

Thus the baronial rebellion against King John raised two fundamental issues: Should the power of government in general be confined by specific rules which defined and limited its competence, and should the power of government in particular to deal with the persons, property, and liberty of the subject be limited by the obligation to vest that action in due process of law? Magna Carta sought to answer both questions in the affirmative. Maitland pointed out a long time ago that one of the most remarkable features of the Charter was its length; the barons reviewed almost every aspect of John's policy and laid down a long list of specific restraints upon his freedom of action. The Charter established a framework of specific law within which relations between the king and his subjects were to be conducted; it laid down rules for the administration of justice and the conduct of royal officials. "For in brief," said Maitland, the Charter means "that the king is and shall be below the law."

WAS NOT UNEXPECTED

WASHINGTON, D. C., - President Johnson's veto of the Guam Right to Work Bill, announced today, was termed "the most flagrant example in recent history of the subservience of a President of the United States to the wishes of labor bosses" in a statement by Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right of Work Committee in Washington.

"I am appalled that the President has, with the stroke of his pen, denied the right of free choice to the 75,000 citizens of Guam," Larson said. "It is the most flagrant example in recent history of the subservience of a President of the United States to the wishes of self - serving labor bosses, who would like nothing better than to see all the workers of the country enslaved by compulsory unionism."

The Guam Right to Work Bill was passed on July 12 by the Eighth Guam Legislature by a 14-6 vote over the veto of presidential appointee Manuel Guerreo, Territorial Governor of Guam.

Federal law provides that when the territorial governor's veto is overridden the bill is forwarded to the President of the United States and he must do one of three things: sign the bill into law, veto the bill or, if he fails to act within 90 days, the bill becomes law without his signature.

The National Right to Work Committee is a coalition of employees and employers with a single purpose: protecting the right of the individual to join or not to join a union without losing his job. The organization led the successful fight to prevent the repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft - Hartley Act.

"The people of America can only conclude that the President has again knuckled under to the compulsory unionism demands of top labor bosses, and that these demands will continue to carry more weight with the President than the strong desire for voluntary unionism expressed over and over again by an overwhelming majority of the American people," Larson said.

"This action by the President should lay to rest for all time any speculation that he was less than deadly serious in his attempt to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft - Hartley Act in the last Session of Congress," Larson said. "The repeal of Section 14(b) would have nullified existing Right to Work laws in 19 states, laws which guarantee freedom of choice to the working men and women of those states."

"Only two months ago, in a speech at the University of Rhode Island, the President said: 'If there is a single word that describes our form of society, it may be the word "voluntary. . . the tremendous prosperity we enjoy and the personal liberty we cherish, are at least good evidence that the system works.'

"The President's veto of the Guam Right to Work Bill has shown that he is against voluntary choice for the workers of Guam, and his efforts toward the repeal of Section 14(b) show that he is against voluntary choice for the working men and women of every other state and territory," Larson said.

"President Johnson's Right to Work veto proves to the people of Guam that they were not in actuality given autonomy as publicized by the government with the passage by Congress of the Guam Organic Act in 1950," Larson said, "but that autonomy exists only so long as the people of Guam, through their elected representatives, act and vote along the lines accepted by the Administration in Washington."

"The Guam Right to Work Bill, had it become law, would have done only one thing: it would have guaranteed voluntary unionism. It would not have interferred in any way with legitimate union activity and it did not restrict the right of employees to organize and bargain collectively with their employers. It merely protected the right of individuals to choose either membership or non - membership in labor unions.

"The President's veto of the Guam Right to Work Bill is another evil omen of the increasing power and dictatorial designs of the wealthy union bosses. New Effort to Update Governmental Woes on Ballot

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — It may have been good enough for 1878 but it isn't good enough for 1966.

That's the reason Nov. 8 general election voters will be faced with a proposed constitutional amendment—the latest in a long series of home rule efforts to solve the growing governmental problems in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Back in 1878, voters agreed to set the St. Louis city limits at Skinder Boulevard, then known as Skiner Swamp.

Legend has it that the reason was Skiner was a full day's buggy ride from the riverfront. Nobody in those days could envision a city getting any bigger than that.

At that time the county's population was estimated at 30,000 and the taxable valuation at $22 million.

Today the population is estimated at over 891,000-the largest voting unit in the state — and the assessed valuation is over $2 billion. The county has surpassed the city in population.

Thus the city boundary is arbitrarily fixed by a limit set in horse and buggy days. It cannot expand even though the situation is entirely different.

The city is hemmed in and cannot grow. The county has mushroomed until now it has almost 100 separate incorporated towns and cities.

And the resulting governmental situation is chaotic.

Traffic, law enforcement, fire protection, health, education and many other governmental functions overlap, conflict and confuse. Taxation is a hodgepodge.

The 1945 Constitution gave the city and county four ways to solve these problems. The city and county could merge, the city could annex into the county, the county could engulf the city or a metropolitan district could be formed--all with voter approval.

Since then many attempts have been made to solve the increasingly complex problems within this constitutional framework. All have failed.

Some of these attempts have been local, some have required legislative and statewide approval.

The last statewide vote was in 1962, when a city-county merger plan was put on the ballot by initiative petition. It called for a new charter and lost overwhelmingly, 217,744 to 633,011.

The 1963 legislature turned down a so-called "metro" plan which would have allowed the city and county to join in mutual services. It didn't get to first base in the legislature and never got on the ballot.

In January, 1965, an interim study committee on metropolitan economic conditions pointed out the existing constitutional methods had not proved broad enough to solve the growing problems.

The committee, headed by Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, said:

"The complexities of modern living as experienced in this sector of our state have produced serious needs which are not readily solved by any of these named methods.

"The greatest possible flexibility in dealing with the governmental problems of the St. Louis metropolitan area is desirable."

Therefore the committee recommended a constitutional amendment "which would empower the people of the area to utilitize any other approach to the solution of problems common to the whole area."

The 1965 Legislaiure approved this so-called "Fifth Avenue" approach and that's the reason it's on the ballot Nov. 8.

In addition to the four existing constitutional methods, it would give the people of the city and county power "to formulate and adopt any other plan for the partial or complete government of all or any part of the city and county."

Any such plan, as at present, would have to be presented by a board of 19 freeholders consisting of nine members from the city, nine from the county and one from some other county. The board could be set up on petition of three per cent of the voters at the last general election for governor.

It will appear on the ballot as Constitutional Amendment No. 1 with this title:

"Authorize St. Louis County and St. Louis City to adopt a plan for partial or complete government of all or any part of the county and city and provide the method of selecting a board of freeholders."

In other words, you'll be voting "yes" or "no" on a home rule proposal. One of its effects would be to relieve the legislature and state government from spending so much time on local St. Louis affairs.

Another would be to recognize the metropolitan area's problems on a 1966 instead of a 1878 horse and buggy basis.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI Medical Center, Columbia, will celebrate its tenth anniversary Nov. 6 through 11. It is fulfilling the long-time aspirations of Missourians for an ultra-modern and complete teaching, research, and patient care center.

THIS YOUNG PATIENT'S VISIT to the outpatient clinics at the University of Missouri medical center, which is celebrating its tenth anniversary Nov. 6-11, was one of more than 70,000 such visits recorded last year. Dr. George Burghen of the medical center staff helps care for patients.

M.U. Medical Center Will Celebrate Anniversary

COLUMBIA -- The University of Missouri medical center will celebrate its tenth anniversary Nov. 6-11, Chancellor John W. Black said.

As part of the anniversary activities, a dedication ceremony for the recently completed addition to the research wing of the university medical center will be held Nov. 6 at 2 p.m. in the medical center auditorium, Dr. Schwada said.

Dr. Robert M. Zollinger, Columbus, chairman of the department of surgery at The Ohio State University, will present the W. Alton Jones surgery lecture Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in the memorial student union auditorium. A reception will follow in the alumni lounge of the memorial student union.

Anniversary activities are open to the public.

Preceding the tenth anniversary week is the university medical center's annual M.D. Day, Nov. 4-5, to which all Missouri doctors are invited.

According to Dean Wilson, growth is the word most accurately describing the medical center's first decade.

Research at the medical center, he said, is continuing each year on a broad and expanding front. Last year, various agencies awarded more than $2 million in research funds to the medical center and its staff to carry on this work.

Dean Wilson pointed out that during the university medical center's first ten years, the original building has been enlarged through two additions. Bids will be let this month for a third expansion which will make it possible to increase the freshman medical class from the present 85 to 100 students.

Five hundred and eighteen doctors have been graduated in the last ten years and 392 nurses have received degrees, Dean Wilson said. In addition, many persons have received training in the health related professions through programs offered at the medical center.

According to Medical Center records, more than 10,000 patients from every part of Missouri were cared for at the University Hospital last year, and another 70,000 received treatment in the outpatient clinics.

Sixty three persons from Scott county were patients in the University of Missouri Hospital last year. There were 111 from New Madrid County, 58 from Mississippi County, 112 from Pemiscot and 37 from Stoddard County.

Magna Carta and the Rule of Law

The origins of the political crisis which culminated in Magna Carta are fairly clear. King John's unsuccessful war to recover his inheritance in Normandy was vastly expensive; the methods he used to collect the money he needed were held to be oppressive and tyrannical; he took ruthless action against defaulters and against his own personal enemies; there was little or no redress against these grievances. In the end John's baronial opponents denounced his conduct of government as unjust and contrary to law, and his actions as emanating from the personal will of a tyrant. Yet the great growth of governmental power in England in the Norman and Angevin age, of which John's reign was only the culmination, had been an achievement above all of personal monarchy. John's personal government, his will too often manifested as malevolentia, precipitated a crisis. The effects of his rule was obvious and often piteous, yet there was little his opponents could do to defend themselves. They denounced his actions as tyrannical, yet with what could they contrast his tyranny?

There was earlier unofficial compilations, like the so-called "Laws of St. Edward" and "Laws of Henry I," for instance, which had in a sense set limits to the exercise of royal authority, but there was little in them to which the barons could appeal in attacking John's government. There was also a vaguer, but none the less deeply ingrained, tradition, shared by king and barons alike, that the king was bound by his oath to rule justly, to uphold the law and the customs of the realm, and to consult his most important subjects on matters of moment. But in what did justice consist? What were the law and the customs of the realm, and what did consultation and consent involve? John had found little difficulty in conducting himself within these vague and undefined limits, and the barons had no answer to these questions, nothing to protect their interests, except a few documents, such as the Coronation Charter of Henry I, which had set limits to royal action in dealing with feudal incidents, and a rather fluid body of precedents which had grown up pari passu with the growth of Angevin administration.

Thus the baronial rebellion against King John raised two fundamental issues: Should the power of government in general be confined by specific rules which defined and limited its competence, and should the power of government in particular to deal with the persons, property, and liberty of the subject be limited by the obligation to vest that action in due process of law? Magna Carta sought to answer both questions in the affirmative. Maitland pointed out a long time ago that one of the most remarkable features of the Charter was its length; the barons reviewed almost every aspect of John's policy and laid down a long list of specific restraints upon his freedom of action. The Charter established a framework of specific law within which relations between the king and his subjects were to be conducted; it laid down rules for the administration of justice and the conduct of royal officials. "For in brief," said Maitland, the Charter means "that the king is and shall be below the law."

WAS NOT UNEXPECTED

WASHINGTON, D. C., - President Johnson's veto of the Guam Right to Work Bill, announced today, was termed "the most flagrant example in recent history of the subservience of a President of the United States to the wishes of labor bosses" in a statement by Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right of Work Committee in Washington.

"I am appalled that the President has, with the stroke of his pen, denied the right of free choice to the 75,000 citizens of Guam," Larson said. "It is the most flagrant example in recent history of the subservience of a President of the United States to the wishes of self - serving labor bosses, who would like nothing better than to see all the workers of the country enslaved by compulsory unionism."

The Guam Right to Work Bill was passed on July 12 by the Eighth Guam Legislature by a 14-6 vote over the veto of presidential appointee Manuel Guerreo, Territorial Governor of Guam.

Federal law provides that when the territorial governor's veto is overridden the bill is forwarded to the President of the United States and he must do one of three things: sign the bill into law, veto the bill or, if he fails to act within 90 days, the bill becomes law without his signature.

The National Right to Work Committee is a coalition of employees and employers with a single purpose: protecting the right of the individual to join or not to join a union without losing his job. The organization led the successful fight to prevent the repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft - Hartley Act.

"The people of America can only conclude that the President has again knuckled under to the compulsory unionism demands of top labor bosses, and that these demands will continue to carry more weight with the President than the strong desire for voluntary unionism expressed over and over again by an overwhelming majority of the American people," Larson said.

"This action by the President should lay to rest for all time any speculation that he was less than deadly serious in his attempt to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft - Hartley Act in the last Session of Congress," Larson said. "The repeal of Section 14(b) would have nullified existing Right to Work laws in 19 states, laws which guarantee freedom of choice to the working men and women of those states."

"Only two months ago, in a speech at the University of Rhode Island, the President said: 'If there is a single word that describes our form of society, it may be the word "voluntary. . . the tremendous prosperity we enjoy and the personal liberty we cherish, are at least good evidence that the system works.'

"The President's veto of the Guam Right to Work Bill has shown that he is against voluntary choice for the workers of Guam, and his efforts toward the repeal of Section 14(b) show that he is against voluntary choice for the working men and women of every other state and territory," Larson said.

"President Johnson's Right to Work veto proves to the people of Guam that they were not in actuality given autonomy as publicized by the government with the passage by Congress of the Guam Organic Act in 1950," Larson said, "but that autonomy exists only so long as the people of Guam, through their elected representatives, act and vote along the lines accepted by the Administration in Washington."

"The Guam Right to Work Bill, had it become law, would have done only one thing: it would have guaranteed voluntary unionism. It would not have interferred in any way with legitimate union activity and it did not restrict the right of employees to organize and bargain collectively with their employers. It merely protected the right of individuals to choose either membership or non - membership in labor unions.

"The President's veto of the Guam Right to Work Bill is another evil omen of the increasing power and dictatorial designs of the wealthy union bosses. It is an omen which the people of the country should remember as they go to the polls on November 8, in many cases to decide between opponents and supporters of voluntary unionism."

To the Editor:

President Johnson is truly a master politician. He held off vetoing the Guam right-to-work bill until the publicity of his own trip aboard overshadowed his deplorable action.

The right-to-work bill adopted in July by the Ninth Guam Legislature was the result of a hard fight by territorial legislators. Earlier legislation on the right - to - work issue was vetoed by the presidentially appointed governor of Guam. The Guam legislators, elected by popular vote, overruled the governor in the case of the latest legislation and approved by a three - to-one margin a bill prohibiting compulsory unionism.

The veto by the President of the United States on this legislation requested and approved by the citizens of Guam is a clear indication of the extent our President is indebted to organized labor.

It is interesting to note that before his dependence on union support, President Johnson as United States Senator voted favorably for right-to-work legislation.

It is appalling and completely upsetting to see the highest elected official being commandeered by a minority within a minority. It is fact that not even a majority of union members support repeal of 14(b). President Johnson is acting upon the demands of a few power - minded union bosses seeking personal gains.

"It will be necessary to work toward the ultimate rejection of smoking as acceptable social behavior," the report said, "and in the meantime to use available methods to discourage the use of cigarettes."

The Right of the Right To Work

COMPULSORY UNIONISM IS A FORM OF SLAVERY . . . CONTRARY TO THE WORD OF OF GOD

Albert J. Lindsey, First Presbyterian Church, Tacoma, Wash.

A clergyman for nearly 30 years, Dr. Lindsey has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Tacoma, Wash., since 1949. He previously had pastorates at the Grace Presbyterian Church at Peroria, Ill., and at the Immanuel Presbyterian Church of Detroit. A one - time law student, he turned from the study of law to answer the call of the ministry, being ordained in 1933 following graduation from the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Omaha. Dr. Lindsey also has an extensive "radio ministry." He has two 15-minute, daily, weekday broadcasts; two Sunday worship services; and has had a regular weekly television program. He has served 10 years as president of the Tacoma Bible Institute. He also serves on the board of directors of the Christian Freedom Foundation of New York, the American Association of Jewish Evangelism, and the National Association of Evangelicals of Wheaton, Ill. Dr. Lindsey is the author of three books and numerous articles and pamphlets.

My conflict with compulsory unionism goes back several years when in my first pastorate in Peoria, Ill., I was compelled to seek a sizable sum of money for one of our good members, a carpenter, to meet union demands that he might have employment. This fine Christian man, the head of a splendid family, though highly trained in his trade, was unable to get work of which there was ample simply because he did not belong to a certain union.

This injustice which in one way or another has been often repeated through the succeeding years has forced me in my experience to see the unfairness and the impracticability of compulsory unionism. And yet I have always been sympathetic with voluntary unionism for it has continued to perform a very needed service and is necessary to our way of life.

But the facts of life compel me to ask, is it right to compel free men to belong to an organization and to pay dues when it is contrary to their own will? Is it right that out of necessity men must be regimented into things which they themselves are opposed to that they may be able to earn a livelihood and live in safety and security and this supposedly in a free climate?

It is certainly no secret that he evils of compulsory unionism are property rights (including freedom of association, freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of work and their political freedom and rights), under the cloak of federal authority."

Judge Long's statement would apply with stronger force to funds exacted from non-union employees under the agency shop.

The case was appealed to the United States Supreme Court. After practically two years of deliberation the court handed down a decision on June 19, 1961, upholding the statutory right (under the Railways Labor act) of union members operating under a union shop agreement to oppose the use of their dues, fees and assessments for political purposes.

The court, however, sidestepped the constitutional question of violation of union members' constitutional rights under compulsory unionism. Justice Brennan, in the majority opinion, argued that the United States Supreme Court must construe statutes, if possible, to avoid constitutional questions. Two justices, Black and Douglas, contended that the spending of union dues for political purposes to which certain members objected, violated their constitutional right of free speech while only two justices, Frankfurter and Harlan, in a dissenting opinion, contended that such use of compulsory union funds is constitutional.

This case has bearing on the agency shop. The Supreme Court defined the nature of a union shop agreement, under the Railway Labor act, to demand not actual membership but only payment for the cost of collective bargaining, in effect making the union shop a watered - down "agency shop".

The Taft - Hartley act in Sec. 8 (a)(3) also demands only that "the employee . . . tender the periodic dues and initiation fee" as the legal test of membership, thus in effect making the union shop synonymous with the agency shop in states without right to work laws, where the union shop is permissive. It would, therefore, be logical to conclude that right to work laws (permitted in Sec. 14(b) of the Taft - Hartley act) which forbid compulsory union membership also prohibit the agency shop, even though the prohibition is not explicitly stated in the law.

Justice Frank remarked that the Supreme Court in the Street case had left the constitutional rights of union members under union shop agreements in "disquieting constitutional uncertainty."

If this is true under legally permissive union shop agreements, it requires little imagination to realize that "constitutional uncertainty" is compounded under an agency shop in a right to work state.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was shocked at your reply to the man who wrote that he was a nervous wreck because of worry over the possibility of nuclear warfare. He said that although he presented a picture of perfect composure and stability to his boss and colleagues, he was fighting hard to stay out of the booby hatch. You told him to see a psychiatrist.

Did it ever occur to you that those who are deeply concerned about our insane foreign policy may be the sane ones while those who are NOT concerned, might be the nuts?

I believe it is a sign of sound mental health to worry about the state of the world. I don't know when I have been more disappointed in you, Ann Landers.
---LET DOWN

Dear Let Down: The man who wrote was more than " concerned." He said he was sorry he had been born and he hated himself for having brought five children into this crazy world. His sentiments reflected a deep state of depression. The experts tell me this type of anxiety is produced by something closer to the inner core than "our insane foreign policy." So I told him, "It's less painful to blame the state of the world for your unhappiness, than to look inside yourself and learn what is REALLY bothering you."

I agree that people SHOULD be concerned about the state of the world, but concern is meaningless unless it is translated into action. To worry one's self to the point of illness is not, in my opinion, either realistic or an evidence of "sound mental health."

Peace is not automatic. If we want a safe and secure world we must work for it. Many excellent organizations are working for peace and I urge all Americans who share their objectives to become involved in these organizations--and put their money up where their mouth is.

As President Kennedy said, "Mankind must put an end to war or war will put an end to mankind."

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to know if it is proper for a bridegroom to sing a couple of numbers at his own wedding.

Our daughter is marrying a very nice chap who does a lot of singing at church affairs and private parties. Sheldon is not a professional singer but his voice is beautiful.

He wants to sing "Because" and "I Love You Truly" at his own wedding. It seems unusual to me, but is it actually wrong? Please advise at once.
---WAITING TO HEAR

Dear Waiting: It would be bad taste for him to perform. The groom is there to get married, not to entertain the guests. I hope Sheldon will ask someone else if he wants that type of music.

Confidential to Kooked Up Cornball: I'm not surprised. No 16-year-old could carry the emotional freight that boy has been lugging around without cracking up. School should be the top priority. He should drop the night job and cut down on his visits to his stepmother.

Do you feel ill at ease...out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FAIRCHILD AIR FORCE BASE, WASH. -- Decorating, from competition booths to aircraft, at the 1966 Strategic Air Command Combat Competition, seemed much in fashion as the air crews and maintenance teams prepared to vie for the world's heavy weight bombing crown, the Fairchild Trophy.

The booths, approximately 15 feet square, prior to the arrival of the competitors were modestly furnished with a desk, a table or two, and some chairs. Most of that has changed.

Some bomb wings have bought carpeting for their booths, others have easy chairs and many have adorned the walls with pictures, cartoons and eye-interesting signs.

The 97th Bomb Wing's booth from Blytheville AFB, Ark., is decorated with cotton corsages, miniature cotton bales, raw cotton samples and photographs of the National Cotton Picking Contests held in Blytheville, dating back to the 1940's. These cotton materials were donated by the Blytheville Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Blytheville.

According to Lieutenant Joseph E. Malloy, the wing's director of information, who is at Fairchild, the "White Gold" is "certainly making a big hit with the military and civilian visitors who have visited the booth."

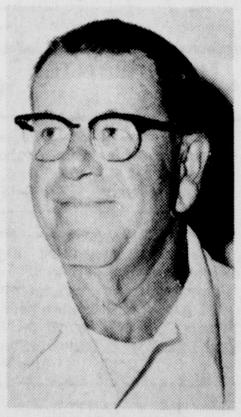
SURVIVOR IS STILL SAVING

George King, now a tire inspector for the Detroit plant of the U. S. Rubber Co., was one of the survivors of the troopship, "Dorchester," torpedoed February 3, 1943, en route to Greenland.

That disaster, in which more than 600 men were killed, was the one in which four Army chaplains, of three faiths, gave their life-belts to soldiers and went down together.

The sacrifice of the four chaplains, all of whom were awarded Distinguished Service Crosses posthumously, was commemorated after the war by a United States postage stamp.

Mr. King, of course, has a vivid recollection of that day and that war. He also recalls, less dramatically and much more pleasantly the beginning of the U. S. Savings Bonds program, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this year.



GEORGE KING

It was as a youthful employee of U. S. Rubber that, in 1941, Mr. King enrolled in the Payroll Savings Plan for buying Savings Bonds. He continued his systematic bond-buying after he was inducted into the Army, in July, 1942, and all through the war, and resumed it when he went back to his job.

"It's really wonderful the way my savings have grown," he says. "With bonds, you always know your money is safe while it's working for you.

"Some of our Savings Bonds were cashed to make the down payment on our home," Mr. King adds, "and, from time to time, it's been necessary to redeem a few to meet emergencies.

"But, thanks to Payroll Savings, we still have a substantial nest-egg which will come in handy when our sons start to college and when the time comes for me to retire."

The Prayer

For Today

From the Upper Room

Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world. (John 8:12)

PRAYER: O Lord, we thank Thee for having given us Christ, the Prince of Peace. We glorify Thee for that light which has shone in our hearts. Hasten the day when all nations and peoples of the earth will find their peace in Him. In His name we ask this. Amen.

To the Editor:

President Johnson is truly a master politician. He held off vetoing the Guam right-to-work bill until the publicity of his own trip aboard overshadowed his deplorable action.

The right-to-work bill adopted in July by the Ninth Guam Legislature was the result of a hard fight by territorial legislators. Earlier legislation on the right - to - work issue was vetoed by the presidentially appointed governor of Guam. The Guam legislators, elected by popular vote, overruled the governor in the case of the latest legislation and approved by a three - to-one margin a bill prohibiting compulsory unionism.

The veto by the President of the United States on this legislation requested and approved by the citizens of Guam is a clear indication of the extent our President is indebted to organized labor.

It is interesting to note that before his dependence on union support, President Johnson as United States Senator voted favorably for right-to-work legislation.

It is appalling and completely upsetting to see the highest elected official being commandeered by a minority within a minority. It is fact that not even a majority of union members support repeal of 14(b). President Johnson is acting upon the demands of a few power - minded union bosses seeking personal gains.

The physicians also suggested, in a report issued Friday, that cigarette advertising be reduced or eliminated.

"It will be necessary to work toward the ultimate rejection of smoking as acceptable social behavior," the report said, "and in the meantime to use available methods to discourage the use of cigarettes."

The Right of the Right To Work

COMPULSORY UNIONISM IS A FORM OF SLAVERY . . . CONTRARY TO THE WORD OF OF GOD

Albert J. Lindsey, First Presbyterian Church, Tacoma, Wash.

A clergyman for nearly 30 years, Dr. Lindsey has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Tacoma, Wash., since 1949. He previously had pastorates at the Grace Presbyterian Church at Peroria, Ill., and at the Immanuel Presbyterian Church of Detroit. A one - time law student, he turned from the study of law to answer the call of the ministry, being ordained in 1933 following graduation from the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Omaha. Dr. Lindsey also has an extensive "radio ministry." He has two 15-minute, daily, weekday broadcasts; two Sunday worship services; and has had a regular weekly television program. He has served 10 years as president of the Tacoma Bible Institute. He also serves on the board of directors of the Christian Freedom Foundation of New York, the American Association of Jewish Evangelism, and the National Association of Evangelicals of Wheaton, Ill. Dr. Lindsey is the author of three books and numerous articles and pamphlets.

My conflict with compulsory unionism goes back several years when in my first pastorate in Peoria, Ill., I was compelled to seek a sizable sum of money for one of our good members, a carpenter, to meet union demands that he might have employment. This fine Christian man, the head of a splendid family, though highly trained in his trade, was unable to get work of which there was ample simply because he did not belong to a certain union.

This injustice which in one way or another has been often repeated through the succeeding years has forced me in my experience to see the unfairness and the impracticability of compulsory unionism. And yet I have always been sympathetic with voluntary unionism for it has continued to perform a very needed service and is necessary to our way of life.

But the facts of life compel me to ask, is it right to compel free men to belong to an organization and to pay dues when it is contrary to their own will? Is it right that out of necessity men must be regimented into things which they themselves are opposed to that they may be able to earn a livelihood and live in safety and security and this supposedly in a free climate?

It is certainly no secret that he evils of compulsory unionism are property rights (including freedom of association, freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of work and their political freedom and rights), under the cloak of federal authority."

Judge Long's statement would apply with stronger force to funds exacted from non-union employees under the agency shop.

The case was appealed to the United States Supreme Court. After practically two years of deliberation the court handed down a decision on June 19, 1961, upholding the statutory right (under the Railways Labor act) of union members operating under a union shop agreement to oppose the use of their dues, fees and assessments for political purposes.

The court, however, sidestepped the constitutional question of violation of union members' constitutional rights under compulsory unionism. Justice Brennan, in the majority opinion, argued that the United States Supreme Court must construe statutes, if possible, to avoid constitutional questions. Two justices, Black and Douglas, contended that the spending of union dues for political purposes to which certain members objected, violated their constitutional right of free speech while only two justices, Frankfurter and Harlan, in a dissenting opinion, contended that such use of compulsory union funds is constitutional.

This case has bearing on the agency shop. The Supreme Court defined the nature of a union shop agreement, under the Railway Labor act, to demand not actual membership but only payment for the cost of collective bargaining, in effect making the union shop a watered - down "agency shop".

The Taft - Hartley act in Sec. 8 (a)(3) also demands only that "the employee . . . tender the periodic dues and initiation fee" as the legal test of membership, thus in effect making the union shop synonymous with the agency shop in states without right to work laws, where the union shop is permissive. It would, therefore, be logical to conclude that right to work laws (permitted in Sec. 14(b) of the Taft - Hartley act) which forbid compulsory union membership also prohibit the agency shop, even though the prohibition is not explicitly stated in the law.

Justice Frank remarked that the Supreme Court in the Street case had left the constitutional rights of union members under union shop agreements in "disquieting constitutional uncertainty."

If this is true under legally permissive union shop agreements, it requires little imagination to realize that "constitutional uncertainty" is compounded under an agency shop in a right to work state.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was shocked at your reply to the man who wrote that he was a nervous wreck because of worry over the possibility of nuclear warfare. He said that although he presented a picture of perfect composure and stability to his boss and colleagues, he was fighting hard to stay out of the booby hatch. You told him to see a psychiatrist.

Did it ever occur to you that those who are deeply concerned about our insane foreign policy may be the sane ones while those who are NOT concerned, might be the nuts?

I believe it is a sign of sound mental health to worry about the state of the world. I don't know when I have been more disappointed in you, Ann Landers. ----LET DOWN

Dear Let Down: The man who wrote was more than " concerned." He said he was sorry he had been born and he hated himself for having brought five children into this crazy world. His sentiments reflected a deep state of depression. The experts tell me this type of anxiety is produced by something closer to the inner core than "our insane foreign policy." So I told him, "It's less painful to blame the state of the world for your unhappiness, than to look inside yourself and learn what is REALLY bothering you."

I agree that people SHOULD be concerned about the state of the world, but concern is meaningless unless it is translated into action. To worry one's self to the point of illness is not, in my opinion, either realistic or an evidence of "sound mental health."

Peace is not automatic. If we want a safe and secure world we must work for it. Many excellent organizations are working for peace and I urge all Americans who share their objectives to become involved in these organizations--and put their money up where their mouth is.

As President Kennedy said, "Mankind must put an end to war or war will put an end to mankind."

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to know if it is proper for a bridegroom to sing a couple of numbers at his own wedding.

Our daughter is marrying a very nice chap who does a lot of singing at church affairs and private parties. Sheldon is not a professional singer but his voice is beautiful.

He wants to sing "Because" and "I Love You Truly" at his own wedding. It seems unusual to me, but is it actually wrong? Please advise at once. ---WAITING TO HEAR

Dear Waiting: It would be bad taste for him to perform. The groom is there to get married, not to entertain the guests. I hope Sheldon will ask someone else if he wants that type of music.

Confidential to Kooked Up Cornball: I'm not surprised. No 16-year-old could carry the emotional freight that boy has been lugging around without cracking up. School should be the top priority. He should drop the night job and cut down on his visits to his stepmother.

Do you feel ill at ease...out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FAIRCHILD AIR FORCE BASE, WASH. -- Decorating, from competition booths to aircraft, at the 1966 Strategic Air Command Combat Competition, seemed much in fashion as the air crews and maintenance teams prepared to vie for the world's heavy weight bombing crown, the Fairchild Trophy.

The booths, approximately 15 feet square, prior to the arrival of the competitors were modestly furnished with a desk, a table or two, and some chairs. Most of that has changed.

Some bomb wings have bought carpeting for their booths, others have easy chairs and many have adorned the walls with pictures, cartoons and eye-interesting signs.

The 97th Bomb Wing's booth from Blytheville AFB, Ark., is decorated with cotton corsages, miniature cotton bales, raw cotton samples and photographs of the National Cotton Picking Contests held in Blytheville, dating back to the 1940's. These cotton materials were donated by the Blytheville Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Blytheville.

According to Lieutenant Joseph E. Malloy, the wing's director of information, who is at Fairchild, the "White Gold" is "certainly making a big hit with the military and civilian visitors who have visited the booth."

No Women Qualify

ALLENTOWN, Pa. AP -- A federal space official says that the United States doesn't have any women astronauts because it hasn't found any qualified for the job.

Dr. George E. Muller of the National Aeronautics and Sapce Administration said he has not been able to find women with scientific and engineering backgrounds, plus test pilot experience.

SURVIVOR IS STILL SAVING

George King, now a tire inspector for the Detroit plant of the U. S. Rubber Co., was one of the survivors of the troopship, "Dorchester," torpedoed February 3, 1943, en route to Greenland.

That disaster, in which more than 600 men were killed, was the one in which four Army chaplains, of three faiths, gave their life-belts to soldiers and went down together.

The sacrifice of the four chaplains, all of whom were awarded Distinguished Service Crosses posthumously, was commemorated after the war by a United States postage stamp.

Mr. King, of course, has a vivid recollection of that day and that war. He also recalls, less dramatically and much more pleasantly the beginning of the U. S. Savi.. Bonds program, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this year.

GEORGE KING

It was as a youthful employee of U. S. Rubber that, in 1941, Mr. King enrolled in the Payroll Savings Plan for buying Savings Bonds. He continued his systematic bond-buying after he was inducted into the Army, in July, 1942, and all through the war, and resumed it when he went back to his job.

"It's really wonderful the way my savings have grown," he says. "With bonds, you always know your money is safe while it's working for you.

"Some of our Savings Bonds were cashed to make the down payment on our home," Mr. King adds, "and, from time to time, it's been necessary to redeem a few to meet emergencies.

"But, thanks to Payroll Savings, we still have a substantial nest-egg which will come in handy when our sons start to college and when the time comes for me to retire."

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 24, the 297th day of 1966. There are 68 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, Secretary of State James Byrnes signed the United Nations charter.

On this date:

In 1942, Admiral William Halsey was appointed commander in the South Pacific.

Also in 1942, the Battle of El Alamein was raging in the Egyptian desert.

In 1944, the Japanese fleet steamed into the Philippine seas to challenge American Naval forces protecting American units invading the islands.

In 1947, 52 persons died in the crash of a United Air Lines plane in Bryce Canyon, Utah.

In 1949, the cornerstone of the permanent United Nations headquarters in New York was laid.

Ten years ago—Soviet forces with tanks, artillery, armored cars and supported by jet planes moved into Budapest to put down an anti-Communist revolt by Hungarian students and workers.

Services for Noted Educator Held Today

He had been hospitalized in a coma for the past 23 days following a stroke.

Funeral services were scheduled today in St. Luke's Methodist Church with burial in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Dr. Smith was president of Oklahoma City University from June 1, 1941 to June 30, 1957, when he became chancellor. In 1960, he assumed the directorship of the Great Plains Foundation, a position he held until retiring three years later.

A native of Erath County, Tex., Smith served for a time as principal and superintendent of schools in Memphis, Tex.

Dr. Smith left the teaching profession for a number of years to follow the ministry as a Methodist pastor in Texas.

He was credited during this period with building, equipping and organizing the Harris Memorial Hospital in Fort Worth, and was the first president of the Texas Hospital Association.

He later served as vice president at Southern Methodist University and President of McMurry College.

Before coming to Oklahoma, Dr. Smith was superintendent of Methodist interests in St. Louis, Mo., and served as president of the Metropolitan Federation, composed of 450 protestant churches.

Nancy — Broad new vistas open for this socially conscious young lady. She might join the Peace Corps, newly funded; the Teachers Corps, a specially trained group which will teach in slum schools; or take part in a new struggle against city blight, or which more anon.

Poochie — He will have more security against dognapers. A new act authorizes the Agriculture Department to regulate the sale and housing of laboratory animals— dogs, cats, hamsters monkeys, rabbits, guinea pigs. Dealers must have licenses and keep records. To safeguard Poochie's health, another act provides aid for educating veterinarians.

Beauville, like most cities, has a slum, a squalid place that lowers the city's tone, and puts a drain on its welfare funds.

Here's a tip to Nancy. Persuade dad and mom to put the heat on the city fathers to get in on the ground floor of the "Demonstration Cities act." If it works, this new approach could wipe out run-down areas in some small cities like Beauville, and improve the quality of life in slums of bigger cities.

All told, Congress passed more than 400 bills, not counting private relief bills, and appropriated $144 billion, a peacetime record. All this, of course, must come out of the pocket of taxpayers or from borrowing, a lien on future tax takes.

of men killed in battle is becoming more favorable to the allies, the number of enemy soldiers surrendering in battle has increased, the number of enemy casualties left on the battle field rather than carried off is rising, and the stream of refugees choosing government security over Viet Cong domination continues to grow.

He added that the flow of information about the enemy from the people in the countryside increases weekly.

Westmoreland warned, however, that Viet Cong assassination and terror is continuing.

He said in the last six weeks the Viet Cong had assassinated 33 government officials or civilians cooperating with the government. He said there had been 51 kidnapings and 122 other acts of terrorism.

"All of the military power which we can bring to bear can achieve only one thing: A state of security in which the people of South Viet Nam can develop their institutions of government, their natural resources and their potentials for production," Westmoreland said.

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told the conference that his Vietnamese government "will very soon offer to all insurgents inside the country an honorable way of giving up their insurgency." Ky did not give details of what apparently will be a new amnesty program geared to the developing allied peace offensive.

He said South Vietnamese who "choose the Communist way of life" will be allowed to go North Viet Nam.

The seven allies in Viet Nam met amid cautiously rising hopes for a Communist move toward peace and somber warnings of expanded war if peace fails to develop.

Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos, chosen chairman in the opening minutes of the meeting, keyed the two-day conference to this double-edged theme in his opening speech.

"Asian peoples have had a surfeit of violence and war," Marcos said. "Their deepest longing is for stability and security. But the peace we want is not the peace of death or the peace of betrayal."

"We want to escalate the peace of the world," Marcos declared at another point. "We must escalate the peace for the alternative is escalation in the opposite direction — toward total war."

The public opening session was held in the legislative chamber of the Philippine House of Representatives. President Johnson, trying to avoid the appearance of a dominant role in the conference, did not speak.

After the opening session, the seven chiefs of governments allied against the Communists in Viet Nam motored to Marcos' Malacanang Palace to meet well into the afternoon behind closed doors.

The rising hope that the conference might encourage movement toward ending the Viet Nam war sprang from reports reaching Manila that European Communist countries alienated from Red China may be about ready to try to get North Viet Nam to soften its attitude toward negotiations.

President Johnson's advisers were deeply interested in reports from New York that Hungarian officials see possibility of a settlement based on reinstituting the 17th Parallel as a firm dividing line between North and South Viet Nam.

of men killed in battle is becoming more favorable to the allies, the number of enemy soldiers surrendering in battle has increased, the number of enemy casualties left on the battle field rather than carried off is rising, and the stream of refugees choosing government security over Viet Cong domination continues to grow.

He added that the flow of information about the enemy from the people in the countryside increases weekly.

Westmoreland warned, however, that Viet Cong assassination and terror is continuing.

He said in the last six weeks the Viet Cong had assassinated 33 government officials or civilians cooperating with the government. He said there had been 51 kidnapings and 122 other acts of terrorism.

"All of the military power which we can bring to bear can achieve only one thing: A state of security in which the people of South Viet Nam can develop their institutions of government, their natural resources and their potentials for production," Westmoreland said.

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told the conference that his Vietnamese government "will very soon offer to all insurgents inside the country an honorable way of giving up their insurgency." Ky did not give details of what apparently will be a new amnesty program geared to the developing allied peace offensive.

He said South Vietnamese who "choose the Communist way of life" will be allowed to go North Viet Nam.

The seven allies in Viet Nam met amid cautiously rising hopes for a Communist move toward peace and somber warnings of expanded war if peace fails to develop.

Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos, chosen chairman in the opening minutes of the meeting, keyed the two-day conference to this double-edged theme in his opening speech.

"Asian peoples have had a surfeit of violence and war," Marcos said. "Their deepest longing is for stability and security. But the peace we want is not the peace of death or the peace of betrayal."

"We want to escalate the peace of the world," Marcos declared at another point. "We must escalate the peace for the alternative is escalation in the opposite direction — toward total war."

The public opening session was held in the legislative chamber of the Philippine House of Representatives. President Johnson, trying to avoid the appearance of a dominant role in the conference, did not speak.

After the opening session, the seven chiefs of governments allied against the Communists in Viet Nam motored to Marcos' Malacanang Palace to meet well into the afternoon behind closed doors.

The rising hope that the conference might encourage movement toward ending the Viet Nam war sprang from reports reaching Manila that European Communist countries alienated from Red China may be about ready to try to get North Viet Nam to soften its attitude toward negotiations.

President Johnson's advisers were deeply interested in reports from New York that Hungarian officials see possibility of a settlement based on reinstituting the 17th Parallel as a firm dividing line between North and South Viet Nam.

Humble start for Dartmouth. But Eleazer Wheelock, the founder, accepted it. He opened the door to every knock, welcomed each gentle lady's cloth or china, each man's favorite jug or sheep.

Such gifts were typical of American generosity. People gave of what they had. The less a man owned, the larger was the little he gave.

Such giving is still typical of Americans.
